PEACE TERMS IMPOSSIBLE

Russia Will Neither Cede Sakhalin Nor Pay an Indemnity.

REPLY IS PREPARED

Pessimism Reigns in the Innermost Camps of Both the Plenipotentiaries.

MOSQUITOES ADD TO GLOOM

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 11.—Russia's reply to the Japanese peace terms will be delivered by M. Witte to Baron Komura at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning. The reply is written, there being two texts, one in French and the other in English. Upon the crucial points, indemnity and the cession of the Island of Sakhalin, the reply is an absolute nonpossimus. Other points are accepted as bases for discussion, while still others are accepted conditionally.

The Japanese plenipotentiaries are expected to ask for an immediate adjournment to this reply and prepare their own. M. Witte will probably intimate the Russian plenipotentiaries expect the Japanese to display as much expedition as the Russians have shown in the preparation of their response. Monday, therefore, is expected to be the day on which the real discussion will begin. Neither side wants to indulge in diplomatic sparring. The time for fencing is over, and less than a week must decide whether a basis of peace is possible.

The tactics of the Japanese are inscrutable. They have shown throughout the war this ability to guard their secrets, military, naval and diplomatic, and now not the remotest clew comes from behind their closed doors whether they are prepared to make substantial concessions. If the conditions as submitted constitute their last word, hope of peace may be regarded as having disappeared if the feeling reflected in Russian circles is a true criterion.

Pessimism Reigns.

In the inner camps of both plenipotentiaries the deepest pessimism reigns. M. Witte, it is positively known, believes the prospects of an agreement are so remote as to be practically nil. He has no desire to prolong the agony, and instead of fencing when the plenipotentiaries come together after the Japanese have had the opportunity to examine the reply, there is strong reason to believe he will not only welcome, but insist upon an immediate discussion of all the proposed bases. So pessimistic is he that he has already been talking to his colleagues of his plans when the rupture comes. Before sailing for home he contemplates a brief visit to Chicago.

That the Japanese terms, in so far as they touch the main points will not be withdrawn or materially modified is the opinion of the most competent Japanese authority on the ground, who will talk for publication, namely, Julio Kumpei Matsumato, a member of the Japanese parliament, who is here as a financial emissary of Japan and who is in close communication with Baron Komura and Mr. Takahira. The reasons he assigns are as follows:

Japan's Claim on Sakhalin.

"The conditions in their broad outlines," said he, "have been substantially known to us in Japan, and the Russians will be very much mistaken if they imagine the Japanese will not insist on the two chief points—the indemnity and the cession of Sakhalin. To surrender either is impossible. If Baron Komura should yield on these points, public feeling in Japan would be so strong he would be murdered on his return to Japan. We must be reimbursed for the cost of the

NEW TUNNEL TO OAKLAND

Subway Under Fifth Avenue Is Proposed by Ex-Senator Flinn.

FIGHT FOR CHARTER

Race With Opposing Company for Right of Way—Twelve New Lines Proposed.

POLITICS MAY BE A FACTOR

To forestall action by an opposition company and to pre-empt the downtown streets for an elaborate subway extending out Fifth avenue to Oakland, the company headed by former State Senator William Flinn yesterday gave legal notice that it will apply for a state charter on September 1, four days ahead of the time set for the application of its competitor, the Pittsburgh Subway Company.

The Pittsburgh Subway Company is promoted by Attorney Arthur O. Fording, a brother-in-law of Mayor Hays, and Engineer E. K. Morse. They are reported to have the political backing of Mayor Hays and Mr. Verner, and promises of financial support from Mr. Verner and others identified with him in traction enterprises.

The third Flinn tunnel company is known as the Fifth Avenue Tunnel Company. Its underground line is to extend from Forbes and Atwood streets along Atwood street to Fifth avenue, thence along and under Fifth avenue to Liberty avenue, along Liberty avenue to Twelfth street, also from Liberty avenue and Smithfield street along Smithfield street to Water street. This line conflicts with the proposed route of the Pittsburgh Subway Company.

Conflicts With Flinn Line.

The proposed route of the Fording and Morse subway system begins at Smithfield street and Oliver avenue, runs along Oliver avenue to Liberty, to Ferry, to Third avenue, to Smithfield and along Smithfield street to the place of beginning, forming a loop for the other tunnel line of the same promoters, the East End Tunnel Company, which is to run in a direct line from Smithfield street and Oliver avenue to Neville street and Ben Venue avenue, with seven lines of surface car feeders extending through the East End, Squirrel Hill, Bellefield, Bloomfield, Shadyside, Oakland and Herron Hill districts.

The proposed Flinn downtown subway conflicts with the subway of its competitor at Liberty avenue and Smithfield street. The Flinn interests also propose amendments to the freight tunnel charter, which it received a year ago, by which the company expects to pre-empt other downtown streets in the route of the opposition company.

To Shut Out Opposition.

If the Flinn company's application for the downtown subway is granted by the state this is expected to shut out completely the ambitions of the opposition in that direction and to nullify its whole plan for an underground route to the East End with extensive feeder lines. The first battle promises to be before the state authorities and the next in the city councils of Pittsburgh.

Both sides admit that they will probably have to apply to the city councils for franchises to build subways under the streets. The present city administrations claim the control of the present councils, and the promoters of the anti-Flinn company hope to be able to use councils before the present administration goes out of power. Franchises will also be asked from councils for the seven surface lines of the company organized against the Flinn interests, known by the following titles: Collins Avenue Street Railway Company, Atlan-

TAFT TALKS TO NATIVES

Outlines the Policy of the Administration in the Philippine Islands.

UPHOLDS OUR SOVEREIGNTY

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

MANILA, Aug. 11.—A banquet given by natives to Secretary of War Taft's party tonight attracted great interest, as it was expected Secretary Taft would outline the policy of the administration. Feeling among the natives has been that the administration was deviating from the McKinley policy, and as a result there has been a noticeable disaffection among politicians with the insular government, also much unrest.

This attitude was met fearlessly by Secretary Taft, who upheld the administration policy. When he finished his address he was loudly applauded. He said, in part, in response to the toast, "The present administration in the Philippines":

"On my part it is due you that if I do nothing else tonight I should make clear the views of the administration upon the present and future of the Islands. The American people are divided, upon the question I am to discuss, into three parties.

The Party of Protection.

"There is a considerable number who have the real imperialistic idea of extending the influence of America, by purchase and conquest, into the Orient, enlarging the power of the American government to control the Pacific and secure the largest share possible of the Oriental trade, yet undeveloped, during the next 100 years.

"There is a second party, and this is much the largest, who regard our taking over the islands from Spain after the war with the greatest reluctance, and who would have been gratified in the extreme if the assumption of the burden could have been avoided. The issue has been under consideration by this party, and, indeed, by the whole American people, and the attitude of mind they now hold respecting the Philippines may be stated with some accuracy.

"They have come to the conclusion that, however reluctant they were to accept the fate thrown upon them, it is their duty to meet the responsibilities imposed with promptness, courage and hope.

MISS ANNA HOCH,
Daughter of the Governor of Kansas.

DAY OF PROBING HAS TRAGIC END

Uniontown's Postmaster Collapses and Daughter is Prostrated.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

UNIONTOWN, PA., Aug. 11.—Postmaster J. L. Malcolm, whose official conduct has been investigated by Inspector H. H. Williams of Pittsburgh, was overcome by the heat and worry this evening. He fainted in the postoffice building and three doctors were called to attend him.

When his daughter, Janice Malcolm, a clerk in the postoffice, heard the news of her father's illness, she also was prostrated and was taken home in a carriage. She recovered consciousness shortly afterwards.

For several hours Mr. Malcolm lay in his office unconscious. It was 9:30 o'clock before he could be removed to his home. At 10 o'clock this evening Drs. J. A. Batten and C. A. Laclave, who are attending him, announced that their patient had recovered consciousness but his condition was critical. The condition of his daughter was much improved and she was pronounced out of danger.

The investigation of Postmaster Malcolm's affairs was continued today, evidence being taken to find to whom some money orders sent from Hungary were paid.

JONES' BURIAL DELAYED

Secretary Bonaparte Postpones the Interment Ceremony Until Spring.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Secretary Bonaparte of the navy after careful consideration has decided that the final interment of John Paul Jones' remains at Annapolis shall not take place until some time next spring.

He has been helped to this decision in part by the fact that the buildings there will then be practically completed and also by the fact that the French nation has expressed a desire to participate in the ceremony by sending to this country a squadron of its ships.

Assistant Secretary Darling has found it necessary to call the attention of several naval officers to the use of certain words in their reports in connection with this matter. Several of them have spoken of the occasion as a "celebration," a denomination hardly in accord with the tenor of obsequies. Since this admonition they will use "ceremony" or "ceremonials," when speaking of the exercises attendant on bringing the body of Admiral Jones to this country and its interment at Annapolis.

RUSSIA RISES IN PROTEST

Mikado's Intolerable Terms Have United All Factions of Czar's Subjects.

PREFER WAR TO SUCH PEACE

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 12.—The news of the speedy completion of M. Witte's reply came as a surprise to the Russian public, as a delay, at least until Monday, was anticipated to permit a consultation at Peterhof.

Though M. Witte had ample powers to draft a reply at Portsmouth, the foreign office shared the view the response would be withheld until Monday. M. Witte's initiative and decision have evoked the admiration of the Russians, accustomed as they are to delays in matters of a similar nature.

Japan's demands, as predicted, have served to array the Russian government and people under the same banner for the first time since the beginning of the war, and it is evident M. Witte will find almost solid support at his back in whatever answer he may make to Baron Komura's communication.

The government encouraged publication of the full dispatches containing the Japanese conditions, which, like a fiery cross, rallied Russia's disunited clans, reactionary, conservative, liberal and radical. With scarcely an exception every voice is raised in urging the government to hold out against Japan's principal demands. The Russ today declares:

"If these are Japan's conditions all hope of peace has vanished."

Indignation also is growing over what is regarded as a doubtful precedure on the part of the Japanese with regard to their credentials and many are asking what is the real reason underlying their action.

Yesterday was given over in the foreign office to a literal and careful deciphering of the Japanese terms, and to putting them into proper form for transmission to the emperor without loss of time and, subsequently, to a preliminary consultation between Count Lamsdorff, minister of foreign affairs, and other high officials.

The terms were sent to the emperor at Peterhof and although communications passed between the foreign office and Peterhof during the day, Count Lamsdorff did not go thither.

ALAN WOOD ILL.

Former Pittsburgh Steel Man Is Lying at the Point of Death in Roosevelt Hospital.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—(Special)—Alan W. Wood, formerly of Pittsburgh, and prominent in the steel world, is at the point of death tonight in Roosevelt hospital. Taken violently ill on Tuesday afternoon he was operated on that night by Dr. Bull. Though hope is held out to the members of his family that he may recover, it is admitted that the chance is extremely slight.

It was supposed that he was suffering from an attack of appendicitis, but the operation revealed the fact that one of his intestines had been ruptured. The operation was extremely difficult and unusual, and it was feared Mr. Wood could not survive it, but he rallied from its effects and was still alive tonight.

EDITOR IS ROBBED.

Nearly Has Thief, but Fails Victim to Clever Ruse of the Pickpocket's Confederate.

BUFFALO, Aug. 11.—E. H. Butler, editor and proprietor of the Buffalo Evening News, was robbed of $1,400 in cash and signed checks for $400 as he alighted from a train in the Erie railroad station today. He was returning from Chautauqua, where he breakfasted with President Roosevelt.

As he passed through the crowd in the train shed Mr. Butler felt a man's hand in his pocket. He seized the man and as he did so, another man stepped up and told Mr. Butler the train brakeman had found his pocketbook on the train. Mr. Butler, releasing his hold on the pickpocket, went to look for the brakeman, only to find he had been duped.

SHORTENS WHISKERS ON HIS TOMBSTONE

PUTNAM, CONN., Aug. 11.—(Special.)—Phineas Gardner Wright, an eccentric character, had a bad dream a few nights ago over his monument in the cemetery. The spirits told him the whiskers on the monument were too long for a good-looking man, so Wright has had the last shipped back to Worcester, Mass., and the whiskers will be shortened.

NINE DEATHS FROM FEVER

United States Surgeon Berry Falls Victim to the Disease.

HAS HAD IT BEFORE

Patterson, La., Reports Thirty Cases and Is in Need of Assistance.

MGR. CHAPELLE IS BURIED

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 11.—The yellow fever situation up to 6 o'clock tonight is officially reported to be as follows:

New cases, 61.
Total to date, 888.
Deaths, 9.
Total to date, 123.
New sub-foci, 12.
Total to date, 163.

The people of New Orleans have made up their minds to await in patience the results of the federal campaign which is now fairly in swing. The life of a stegomyia mosquito has not been definitely ascertained. Yellow fever had made so much headway when it was discovered, and it has prevailed so generally in the lower quarters of New Orleans, that doubtless many mosquitoes escaped the disinfecting process. These mosquitoes may be expected to transmit the disease for several days longer at least.

Doctors Are Co-Operating.

The campaign of education and persuasion, however, is beginning to tell, and Dr. White begins to see light ahead from the apparent willingness of physicians to co-operate with him in making known any suspicious case that appears in private practice. Up to noon today a dozen cases of yellow fever had been reported by doctors, while official inspectors reported none.

Dr. White today made public announcement of his detailed organization. It is an assignment of his assistants to each of the 17 wards of New Orleans. Two medical inspectors are assigned to each of the larger wards, and one to each of the smaller wards. Nearly all of Dr. White's staff have arrived.

Surgeon Is Stricken.

Surgeon G. N. Berry of the Marine hospital staff, today was stricken with yellow fever. Surgeon Berry is a Texan, but has lately been stationed in New York. He was one of the first to reach New Orleans to fight yellow fever. Because he has been through the Cuban campaign and had had yellow fever in Texas he was thought to be immune. He was put in charge of work in the originally infected area, where yellow fever has raged most fiercely.

Dr. Berry has been doing yeoman service in disinfection. He was taken sick yesterday, and today his case developed into one of yellow fever. He was removed to the Touro infirmary, where special yellow fever wards have been provided.

One hundred men were engaged today in disinfecting the lower part of the city. Every room in every house thus far reached has been treated to one course of disinfection, and the whole ground is to be covered again and again until the mosquitoes disappear. Wherever quantities of sulphur have already been burned in this work.

Death Rate Grows Less.

There were 81 patients at the emergency hospital today. The death rate in this hospital grows less daily, and many patients have been discharged as cured.

Patterson, La., has 20 cases of yellow fever and financial and other assistance is said to be needed. Today three yellow fever nurses were sent to Patterson by the state board of health. The Southern Pacific railroad provided a private car to carry them.

In the presence of a congregation of mourners that partly filled the cathedral and with some 40 priests participating in the services, mass was said today for Archbishop Chapelle. Burial in the crypt of the cathedral followed. Archbishop Chapelle was the second head of the diocese to succumb to the disease. Bishop Neckere, the fourth bishop of the diocese, died of yellow fever in 1853.

STRUGGLE WITH ANARCHIST.

Spaniard Attempts to Kill President Quinta of Argentine Republic With Revolver.

BUENOS AYRES, Aug. 11.—(Special Cable.)—While President Quinta was driving this afternoon past Plaza San Martin, Planas Vicella, a Spaniard, approached his coach with a loaded revolver in his hand. Adj.-Capt. Alvarez sprang from the coach and impeded the would-be assassin.

A shot was fired during the struggle which ensued. Planas freed himself and directed a new revolver at the president, but a police officer overpowered him. Planas claims to be an anarchist, unknown to the police.

OAKMONT GIRL WALKS FROM WINDOW WHILE SLEEPING

While fast asleep early yesterday morning Miss Amelia Brown of Oakmont rose from her bed and fell 18 feet from her second-story bedroom window to the ground. One arm was fractured in two places and the ankle was severely sprained.

Gen. MacArthur Leaves for Japan.

GEN. OKU'S HEADQUARTERS IN THE FIELD, Aug. 10.—Via Fusan, Aug. 11.—Gen. Arthur MacArthur, accompanied by his aide-de-camp, Capt. Parker W. West, of the Eleventh United States cavalry, left the front today for Japan. He will visit Korea, China and India before returning to America.

Fair Gamblers Are Arrested.

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—A number of alleged bucket shops were raided by the police today. Both men and women found in the places raided were placed under arrest. Today's action followed recent rulings of the Illinois supreme court.

A WISE OLD OWL.

MAJOR TAGGART'S TALE OF DEBAUCH

Married Life Seems to Have Been One Long-Continued Drunk.

HELD PRISONER IN HOSPITAL

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

WOOSTER, O., Aug. 11.—With the resumption this morning of Major Taggart's testimony in the trial of the divorce case against his wife, the packed court room was carried with the officer from one army post to another, where the scenes of the alleged misconduct of Mrs. Taggart were laid. Major Taggart's story reflected the gaiety of military life; the sparkle of wine and the sensuous cadences at the post ballrooms; the admiration accorded an attractive woman; her first misstepsthen a poisoned home and the pitying regard of brother officers.

"I am going to tell the whole story," Major Taggart told his attorneys as he went on the witness stand this morning. "If I have to leave out my own misdeings in order to get a divorce, I won't get one."

Major Taggart made an ideal witness. His language and manner were forcible and convincing.

At the opening of the court this morning Judge Eason handed down his decision in regard to admitting the testimony of C. R. Mayble, the detective, and decided not to admit the testimony. It was Mayble whom Mrs. Taggart yesterday designated as a "cur." Major Taggart again took the stand and took up his story where he left off Thursday evening.

Gets Anonymous Letter.

"The morning after the drinking bout at Matanzas, Cuba," he said, "I took my wife to task about it. At Fort Thomas, in the summer of 1898, while at the rifle range, I received the letter referring to Capt. Rither's visits to Mrs. Taggart. I read the letter, inclosed it in another envelope with a letter I had written, and sent it to Mrs. Taggart. My brother first told me of Rither's calling on my wife about six months ago at Orrville. When my wife returned from a visit to Chicago she told me of Clinton Boencer accompanying her to a party and I told her that Spencer was a man, without a family, who delighted in taking advantage of other men's wives.

"When leaving the house one afternoon about 1 o'clock one of the servants said to me: 'Why don't you stay at home in the afternoon?' I paid no attention to this. The next afternoon the servant again said: 'Why don't you come home in the middle of the afternoon?' The next afternoon the servant again accosted me as I was leaving and said, 'If you will come home about the middle of the afternoon you will find something that is not right. There is a man who comes here after you leave and goes away just before you return. His name is Capt. Bash.' I told my wife of this and she said: 'You have set the servants watching me.'

Wife Kept Late Hours.

"One night in August I went home and went to bed about 10 o'clock. About 2 o'clock I was awakened by the door opening down stairs and Capt. Bash saying 'Goodnight' to my wife. When she came up stairs I asked where she had been. She refused to discuss the affair, saying the neighbors would hear. I told her she would have to tell me and I would go and verify it. She refused and I shook her and slapped her on the cheek with the ips of my fingers and then she said she had just been out driving and I made her promise not to have anything more to do with Bash. I said to her: 'Now I believe what the servants told me.'

"After dinner on the evening of June 30, 1903, at about 7 o'clock, Mrs. Taggart went for a drive by herself, and at 1 o'clock when I awoke I found she had not yet returned. I went to the telephone and called up Capt. Poore.

Would Haul Her Home.

"He told me that they had just been over to my house but could not get in, so they returned to Poore's house and Mrs. Taggart would stay all night. I told him if she was not able to walk I would send a carriage. Poore said Mrs. Taggart was all right and he would bring her over right away which he did. Mrs. Taggart was under the influence of liquor when she started upstairs. I asked her what she meant by coming home to me in such a condition, and she said she would not talk about it until morning. I gave her a slap with my open hand on her left cheek.

"At noon on July 1, 1903, I was called up by telephone and asked to come over to Adjutant Beacon's and have a cup of coffee. I went and was there ordered to the colonel's office. Col. Miner asked me what I would say if Mrs. Taggart said she was afraid to live in the same house with me. I told him that I could not answer the question because I did not think that Mrs. Taggart would say such a thing. He then suggested that he go and ask her, and I said he could if Col. Hoff went along. They refused to allow me to go along.

Prisoner in Hospital.

"My wife received a telegram from her mother who was sick in San Francisco. I spent the night alone in a cell. Under no circumstances was I to leave the hospital and go to my house. The surgeon called to see me, but made no examination. No one but the attendants came to see me except Capt. Poore, who called the day Mrs. Taggart left with the children for San Francisco. He said he was the go-between betwen Col. Miner, Mrs. Taggart and myself. I told him to tell Mrs. Taggart not to go, or at least leave the children with me, for it would break my heart to part with them. He said he would deliver my message to Mrs. Taggart, but he would tell her to take both the children along. The children came to see me before they left. This was on the fifth day of my imprisonment. No medical treatment nor medicine of any kind was offered me while imprisoned. Capt. Poore brought me a message from Mrs. Taggart saying she thought Col. Miner would let me out of the hospital the next day after she had left the post for San Francisco. The day after my family left the post I was released from the hospital and sent to the rifle range, after being in solitary confinement for six days. I was not drunk on the night of June 30, 1903. I had two drinks at the officers' mess."

Maj. Taggart's testimony will be continued in the morning.

Victim of Many Accidents.

NEW CASTLE, PA., Aug. 11.—(Special.)—H. S. Mills, a traveling man who has suffered 16 fractures during his life, was brought to the hospital here tonight suffering from an accident at Wampum. While in an epileptic attack he fell, spraining his left knee. The injury is considered by the hospital physicians to be worse than a fracture.

RIVER TRIP IS A BIG SUCCESS

"M. and M" Tourists Return at Late Hour from the Trade Extension Excursion.

A DAY OF WORK THAT COUNTS

Thoroughly tired with marching uphill and then down again, but more than satisfied with the practical results of their trip, the 150 or more trade tourists of the Merchants and Manufacturers' association reached Pittsburgh at 12:35 o'clock this morning. The steamer Island Queen had performed for the Monongahela valley travelers its last duty for the present, but it will hold for every member of the party memories of two of the busiest days of their lives.

"Outside of the missionary work done among the tradesmen of the rich Monongahela valley district, the present trip has especial distinction in its social influence on the members of the organization," was the comment made by General Manager James W. Wardrop of the "M. & M." yesterday. "No train can give the opportunity for the continual commingling of a party which a boat affords. The result of this is evident."

Mr. Wardrop, whose office work throughout the summer has been particularly strenuous, stood up under the stiff pace on Thursday and started in yesterday morning. First his voice grew thick; then thicker; then he collapsed entirely, and a physician's services were needed on the boat. The serious phase of his illness did not last long, however, and by evening he was able to leave the boat.

Bit of Humor on a Dry Day.

Business was the main point everywhere on the trip. There was only one place where a humorous element developed. At California the usual procession in double file was formed and the march started through the main portion of the town, down to the Normal school. In front proudly marched the local reception committee. With them were President E. L. Lloyd of the association and some other stellar lights. Behind them marched Rocerete's band doing its best. It should be stated here, parenthetically, that California is a thoroughly "dry" town. All went as merry as wedding bells for a little while. Then the marchers began to drop away, one file at a time, until by the time the march was half over, the local committee and the association's officers were with much dignity escorting the lone band around the town. A fifer, happening to look backward, saw the situation and the funny squeak of his instrument put some of the others wise. That was the end of that march.

The active day started at Brownsville at 9 o'clock when the members were assembled in the parlors and on the veranda of the Pennsylvania hotel. President George Moore of the Three Towns Board of Trade voiced the welcome and his theme was elaborated upon by Attorney W. E. Cettom. The response was made by President Lloyd.

Outrage by Little Boats.

From the hotel the party proceeded to the wharf where the steamer was awaiting them, and where the only act of discourtesy that was experienced in the whole trip took place. Two little boats—hardly more than launches, had drawn up beside the Island Queen and by the time the party came aboard the big boat these craft were working up enough steam to run a dozen vessels and making more smoke than two dozen. The smoke bleared the decorations on the Pittsburgh vessel and ruined the linen of fully half of the party. The big vessel itself required a washing when the little ones were through. Only by the threat of physical violence were the two owners of the boats forced to take them away.

California was the first stop on leaving Brownsville and there the party was received by a committee consisting of William Burly, Joseph Hornbake, Harry Garlst, A. B. Watt, W. C. Smith, S. K. McCleary, W. M. Duff and D. K. Wilkinson. Mr. Wilkinson remained with the party on part of the remainder of the trip.

Welcoming whistles betokened the entry into Fayette City. At the foot of the gangplank stood one little girl who gave each of the guests a boutonniere, while another supplied the pins. The welcome was spoken by A. B. Barnum. The committee in charge consisted of J. A. Black, G. M. Beck, R. M. McCune, James Patterson and James Binns.

Belle Vernon was tastefully decorated for the visitors. Its committee was composed of E. M. Kyle, J. F. Fry, I. H. Sheppler, W. C. Kittle, Frank Bowser, John Robinson, N. H. Beazell and J. H. Eller.

"It was the Elks" again at Charleroi, although the non-Elks added much in making that city a bright memory for the tourists. First the committee escorted the party to the Coyle Opera house, where a short program of speaking was carried out. The Rev. I. K. Fry was the first speaker and here a big gilt "Key to the city" was presented by Mr. Fry, who said: "Just for once, and only for a little while, Charleroi is wide open. This key will get anything you want anywhere at any time during your visit."

At the beautiful Elks club the freedom of the city was demonstrated with the assistance of many members, including S. C. Todd, J. K. Tener and K. W. Daly. Mr. Daly had taken part in the auditorium exercises, his fellow-townsmen on the stage being Tom P. Sloan, president of council; J. J. Flott and George Might, president of the Merchants association.

At Busy Monessen and Donora.

Monessen's huge manufacturing enterprises were never better recognized than by the men on the steamer as the boat swung past them. The wonderful "Iron City of the Monongahela" sent its most representative men to greet the visitors. From the steel companies came George Nash, A. B. Scott, E. L. Cronemeyer and C. M. Lamb. The bankers were represented by C. F. Eggers, Jesse Hancock and J. Howard Kelly, and Mr. Kelly was the welcoming orator. The Merchants' exchange was represented by L. X. Ely, J. K. Boyd and C. M. Greer. The councilmen taking part were W. F. Triggs, W. S. Bumbaugh and Frank Irwin. Burgess A. Anshuster took part and Editors Carey L. Schuck and H. P. Pore completed the town's able representation.

Donora, just winding up its greatest week as the hostess of the firemen of Western Pennsylvania, and decorated from Dan to Beersheba, turned out in good style. On the steps of the bank of Donora, Acting Burgess B. W. Castner welcomed the Pittsburghers and pointed out to them the wonders of the champion five-year-old city of the world. As the visitors marched along they met a little surprise. Drawn up in the fine style, which won for them one of the four prizes they received, were the members of the Mt. Oliver fire brigade, resplendent in their dress uniforms. The committee at Donora included J. J. Miller, Walter S. Sprague, J. C. Lang, J. H. McCune and S. S. Kelly, who was marshal.

When the boat left Donora the band played Home, Sweet Home" and the long sweep of the wheel carried the big party rapidly back to Pittsburgh. A vote of thanks was tendered informally to Capt. John F. Klein, the Island Queen's owner, for his well-directed efforts to help make the four a succes.

Guests Are Delighted.

Among the guests of Traffic Manager W. H. Williams of the "M. & M." on the boat were Col. F. H. Tristram and Col. W. D. Holliday, the heads of the Wabash passenger and freight departments at Pittsburgh. Both of these gentlemen are wise on what goes to make a fine outing. The encomiums on the event of this week show the success it proved. Like words of praise were given by two other guests, N. W. Brooker, Jr., and Frank Hart, officials of the Pittsburgh & Allegheny Telephone Company.

HEAVY RAIN SPOILS FUN OF MACCABEES AT LUNA

The 4,000 Who Attend Outing Have Good Time Until Elements Get to Work in Earnest.

Yesterday was Maccabees' day at Luna park. Arrangements had been made for a monster turn-out of members of the order and their friends, but the threatening weather kept hundreds who had expected to be present away. Those who did attend, something like 4,000, had a delightful time of it until the terrific downpour of rain, about 6 o'clock last evening, put an end to their enjoyment.

The fall of rain in the vicinity of Luna park was so heavy that the pavilion occupied by the glass blowers and the fun-producing "Arcadia" was inundated by the rush of waters from the more elevated portions of the park.

The waters went tearing down toward that particular pavilion with such force that the wooden walks in front of the place were forced out of position and drifted about in a miniature lake for half an hour. A big force of workmen went to work immediately after the storm ceased and inside of two hours everything was again ship-shape.

DEPENDS UPON THE MONEY.

Braddock General Hospital Improvements Not Yet Decided Upon.

Benefit Picnic to Be Held.

The board of managers of the Braddock General hospital met yesterday afternoon at the old Mills homestead, which has been purchased for hospital purposes. All the members of the board were present, in addition to Architect E. J. Carlisle.

Several plans have been prepared for the alterations and improvements to the property. No definite conclusion was reached, pending financial developments. If the money is forthcoming, the present building will be practically rebuilt, but if the board has to get along with limited means the present building will merely be remodeled inside to meet the needs of the work.

Nearly 200 merchants of Braddock, North Braddock and Rankin have signed an agreement to close their places of business at noon on August 24, the day of the big picnic for the benefit of the hospital. Arrangements are being made to take over 10,000 persons to Kennywood park that day.

HEAT CLAIMS FOUR VICTIMS IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—Four persons died in Chicago today of heat prostration and 23 others were prostrated. The mercury did not rise above 90 degrees on the street level, but the high humidity made the day exceedingly uncomfortable. Eighty-seven degrees was the maximum recorded by the weather bureau.

TUNNEL TO OAKLAND UNDER 5TH AVE.

tic & Baum Street Railway Company, Shadyside Street Railway Company, Bayard Street Railway Company, Boquet & Joncaire Street Railway Company, Melwood Avenue Street Railway Company and Pittsburgh & East End Street Railway Company.

Five Tunnels, Seven Surface Lines.

If all the lines projected by the Flinn interests and its opposition were built there would be five tunnels or subways, two downtown and three to the East End and Oakland, and seven new lines of surface cars spreading over the city. The Flinn company proposes three tunnel routes, the Fifth avenue line announced yesterday being the third. The other two are from Seventh avenue and Grant boulevard to Craig street, and from Elm and Clark streets to Forbes street and Oakland avenue.

Attorney Fording refuses to make public the names of those who are expected to furnish the capital for the two tunnel and seven surface lines which his company proposes. He refuses to deny or affirm that Mayor Hays, his brother-in-law, and Murry A. Verner are interested. He says he will not talk until after the charters are obtained.

In his zeal to deny any connection with the company Mayor Hays not only declares that he is not interested, but also includes Mr. Verner.

"I supposed that when they saw Mr. Fording's name as attorney for the company people would connect me with it because I am his brother-in-law," was the way the mayor sought to explain the use of his name. "I have no interest in the company nor has Mr. Verner, and I know nothing about it," said he.

Claim Verner Grants Are Dead.

Parties connected with the company who did not wish to be quoted say their company's surface routes conflict with the routes of the Verner and Hall syndicates for which charters were obtained a couple of years ago, but the claim is made that these charters are all dead, with the possible exception of the Grant boulevard line; that the boulevard line is merely an extension of the Grant and Libert street railway, and is probably only kept alive by the litigation over the validity of the franchise.

The anti-Flinn tunnel promoters claim that all the Hall charters expired on June 24 last and that the Verner charters expired about the same time or soon after.

President Callery denies that the Pittsburgh Railways Company has any interest in either the Flinn of the Morse-Fording traction schemes. Mr. Callery professed ignorance of the plans of the proposed seven trolley lines and claimed he had not even heard what streets were to be occupied.

Say It Is a Speculation.

The promoters of the Flinn company did not manifest much faith in the report that Mayor Hays and Murry A. Verner were interested in the company that is competing with them for tunnel rights. They expressed the belief that it is merely a speculative scheme originated by Engineer Morse and projected after the announcement that Senator Flinn intended to build tunnels to the East End and Oakland.

The Flinn people claim that the route of the Morse-Fording subway downtown runs into their right-of-way for an underground freight line and this line includes Oliver avenue as well as other streets mentioned in the opposition's application for a charter. The Morse-Fording company claims that streets cannot be pre-empted for an underground freight line to shut out a subway line for the transportation of passengers and this question may have to be settled in court.

The solicitor for Senator Flinn's third tunnel company is Richard W. Martin, an attorney in the office of former State Senator J. S. Weller, who is counsel for Senator Flinn.

PEACE TERMS CONSIDERED IMPOSSIBLE

war and we have national claims to Sakhalin which we have never forgotten.

"About 200 years ago the island was explored by a Japanese, Juzo Konda, who occupied it in the name of Japan and called it Karafuto, the name bestowed on it by the aboriginal Ino race who at that time also inhabited the island of Hokkaido. Finally it was discovered by a Russian captain who occupied it in the name of Russia. Japan protested, and a long, desultory negotiation followed. But Japan then was weak. She had neither army nor navy nor internal organization. Indeed, the country was almost on the verge of revolution. Japan could not resist and the upshot was that Russia one day ended the controversy by announcing that she would take Sakhalin and give Japan the Chishima (Kuriles) islands—which Japan already owned.

Will Not Modify Terms.

"Japan has no desire to humiliate Russia more than is necessary and even now is seeking to avoid wounding Russia's susceptibilities, but public opinion in Japan is absolutely so firm upon the main issues that no Japanese statesmen could possibly dare to withdraw the terms which have been proposed as the basis of peace.

"The Japanese government has only asked what, according to Japanese ideas are considered most moderate terms. A strong party in Japan favored claiming not only Sakhalin, the Liaotung peninsula, protectorate over Korea, and the evacuation of Manchuria, but also the cession to Japan of the territory around the mouth of the Amur."

The question of the credentials has been amicably adjusted on the assurance of the Japanese that the powers granted Baron Komura were in the regular form always employed by Japan. M. Witte will not pursue the matter further.

Millions of mosquitoes and intolerable heat confront the plenipotentiaries. No one felt the heat more than has M. Witte. He is a heavy man of large stature and not accustomed to extreme climatic conditions of summer. He worked in his rooms throughout the day in negligee and every moment he was drenched with perspiration.

They Go to Jerusalem.

After the hotel orchestra had concluded its labors tonight, and there seemed nothing to do but fight mosquitoes in silence, some one proposed the party "go to Jerusalem" in the ball room. Something like 50 young people immediately scampered to that spacious room and in a jiffy the same number of chairs were in the center of the floor. A tune was started on the piano, the party joined hands around the chairs and then scrambled for them every time the music stopped.

Almaro Sato, minister resident, and Commander Isamu Takeshita of the Japanese suite were eager participants in the game. Mr. Sato was the hero of the game. He unseated stalwart youths and sent them spinning over the smooth floor in undignified positions, but he always secured a coveted chair for himself. The nimble naval attache was not so fortunate. He found himself at the sudden stoppage of the music which was the signal for scrambling, with his black head on the floor and his feet in the air.

The strange mingling of summer guests and the foreigners who have come with the peace missions in various capacities and the precision of etiquette observed between the large corps of Japanese correspondents and those who have come over from Europe, occasion many amusing scenes on the broad verenda and spacious parlors and lounging rooms of the hotel. Whenever two Japanese correspondents meet no matter if for the fifteenth time the same day, each will stop short before the other and execute a bow which for mechanical precision and alacrity of movement is ideal.

Russia Must Accept.

ROME, Aug. 11.—The opinion is expressed in Rome that Japan's terms are rather severe on Russia, but that if the Japanese are sufficiently firm, Russia will end by accepting, as there is nothing in them, it is thought, derogatory to Russian pride.

Not Japan's Last Word.

PARIS, Aug. 11.—The Japanese peace conditions produced a depressed feeling in official quarters, the terms being considered somewhat hard. It is, however, the prevailing view that Japan's last word has not been spoken.

Not So Hopeless, After All.

BERLIN, Aug. 11.—The Lokal Anzeiger's correspondent at Portsmouth, N. H., cables he asked M. Witte if the Japanese terms presented a basis for continuing the negotiations and that Witte answered, "Certainly."

Not Excessive, Thinks Britain.

LONDON, Aug. 11.—The Japanese peace terms are not considered excessive by the British government nor as being sensibly reducible in the main points.

PLAYED THE DOUBLES.

Hobart and Grant Had to Work Hard for a Victory.

BOSTON, Aug. 11.—Tennis at Longwood today consisted entirely of matches in doubles, and five events left tonight F. B. Alexander and H. H. Hackett and G. L. Wrenn and R. Fincke, all of New York, to compete in the finals for the eastern championship. The winners will meet the western champions at Newport on the 15th.

The course of Wrenn and Fincke through the tournament has thus far been an easy one, all their matches being decided in straight sets. Their hardest contest came this afternoon, when they met Clarence Hobart and W. C. Grant, and while they had to exert themselves considerably more than on previous days, still no extra sets were necessary, although the second went through 16 games. The pair are the favorites in the finals.

They believe they have become the trustees and protectors of the whole Philippine people and must prepare that people to maintain the stable government now there.

"There is a third party if which favors giving the islands immediate independence. This party may be divided into two classes, having different motives. The first class is anxious to rid the United States of the burden of governing the Filipino and for the benefit of the United States. The second class is anxious to rid the Philippines of the government of the United States on the ground the Filipinos can make their own government. This third party has been twice defeated in an election on that issue.

President Its Exponent.

"The second party has for its chief exponent President Roosevelt. He believes it is the duty of the United States to prepare the Filipinos for self-government. This will require a generation and probably longer, and the form of self-government will be left to the individuals who will control the two nations at that time. It follows that the president—and he himself desires me to say this to the Filipinos—feels charged with the duty of proceeding on this policy and maintaining the sovereignty of the United States here as an instrument of the gradual education and elevation of the whole of the Filipino people to a self-governing community."

Secretary Taft said that the Filipinos who wished to rule this country must first learn the principles of democracy by sending their children to the common schools before they could invite the United States to transfer the trust, which had been thrown upon it, to the shoulders of the Filipinos. To make a self-governing and popular democracy, primary education, habits of greater industry and thrift must always be kept, he said, before the young, patriotic Filipinos.

Must Become Industrious.

"In a number of the provinces," he said, "the people, with the greatest difficulty, avoid starvation. Now, this is not due to the sod or unfavorable agricultural conditions. All three are easily overcome by the industry which is manifest in Java and Japan. The foundation of a great nation like Japan is in the industry, tariff and intelligence of the people."

The secretary affirmed that a popular assembly would be formed, if no insurrection existed, in April, 1907. The administration's policy, he said, was the Philippines for the Filipinos. If the American officers were not in sympathy with this policy and with the natives, they would be recalled. Secretary Taft said in conclusion that it was the president's desire that all must work for their benefit.

Miss Roosevelt was entertained early this evening at a dinner by Commissioner Ide. On entering the banquet room she was roundly cheered.

WARNING ISSUED TO THE CHINESE

President Draws Attention of Mongolian Government to Old Treaty.

AMERICANS MUST HAVE SHOW

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

SHANGHAI, Aug. 11.—Alarm regarding the impending financial crisis in consequence of the Chinese boycott of American goods is increasing.

President Roosevelt has instructed Minister Rockhill to warn the Chinese government that the United States government will insist on the full observance of article 15 of the Tien Tsin treaty of 1858.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Article 15 of the Tien Tsin treaty provides that at each of the ports open to commerce citizens of the United States shall be permitted to import from abroad and sell, purchase and export all merchandise of which the importation or exportation is not prohibited by the laws of the empire.

The state department some days ago directed the attention of Minister Rockhill to this particular article in view of published reports that it was the intention of those managing the boycott against American goods to interfere with the landing of American goods and to prevent stevedores from removing American goods from vessels in Chinese ports. It is the opinion of the state department that any such act would be in violation of article 15, and Minister Rockhill was instructed to call the attention of the Chinese government to these reports and the treaty with a view to preventing any interference in the landing of American goods in China.

It is supposed at the department that the Chinese government has already taken action on Minister Rockhill's communication, and officials at different ports have been instructed to see that the provisions of the treaty are not violated. No complaints have been received at the state department indicating that the threats of interference with American commerce had been carried out, but it was to forestall anything of this kind that the instructions were sent to Minister Rockhill.

SHEA ADMITS HE CHANGES RECORDS

Tells Teamsters' Convention His Action Saved Men from Indictment.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 11.—The session this afternoon of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters was the stormiest in the history of the union. Physical violence was several times narrowly averted. Nothing was accomplished and the convention was adjourned until tomorrow to permit the delegates to cool down.

The disorder was the result of a motion made by C. W. Briggs to indorse the Chicago strike. As soon as the motion was made there was an uproar. Men in all parts of the hall began shouting and shook their fists at one another.

President Shea then became the object of the attack of delegates. They accused him of misconducting the strike and also made general charges of incompetency.

John Sheridan of Chicago, seventh vice president, charged President Shea with violating the constitution in calling the strike. Mr. Shea took the floor and admitted that the Montgomery, Ward & Co. strike, which started all the trouble was not indorsed by the general executive board, as required by the constitution. The situation was such he said, that he could not wait for the slow process of getting indorsements from members of the executive board, who live in different parts of the country. He said it was the most justifiable strike ever called in America.

Finally President Shea again took the floor and vigorously defended himself. Some one inquired about the security of some of the union's records, to which President Shea made the following reply:

"I make this statement realizing the full force of what I say—realizing that my remarks may be brought against me in a court of justice. I deliberately state that I did recommend the changing of certain things on the records of the local unions of Chicago during and after the teamsters' strike, because I thought that the alteration of the records would prevent some of our men being indicted."

After President Shea concluded Acting Chairman Chris O'Neill of Buffalo, decided that it would be best to adjourn the convention, which was done. The election of officers will take place tomorrow. A bitter contest is expected.

BREAK THE GAS MAIN.

Fire from Traction Engine Starts Blaze, and Two Men Are Badly Burned.

By the breaking of a gas main by a heavy traction threshing engine passing over it on a county road near Valencia Thursday evening two men were severely burned and the engine was badly damaged. Some of the farmers thereabouts had to burn wood or coal instead of gas until the gas main was repaired.

Henry Hardt and Charles Crosley of Glenoria started out a couple of weeks ago with a brand new threshing outfit. They succeeded well in their venture until on a dirt road about a mile from the Butler plank road near Valencia on Thursday afternoon. While they were transferring the outfit, which consisted of the traction engine, a water tank and the threshing machine, from one farm to another a couple of miles away, the engine got the better of the steering apparatus and ran off the side of the road. It struck a two-inch gas main and burst through the rusted tube.

Fire from the firebox of the engine set the gas ablaze. Unfortunately the engine was stopped just over the blaze and the fire was so hot from the gas and engine that the efforts of Hardt and Crosley were without avail to quench it. After being badly burned about the arms they succeeded in extinguishing the blaze by using all the water from the tank.

Girl Shot in a Cab.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—A handsomely dressed woman who said she was May Hall, aged 19, and was stopping at a Broadway hotel, was taken to New York hospital, in a cab tonight, having been found on Riverside drive, suffering from a pistol shot wound in the right breast, inflicted by a man who was riding with her. Later she admitted the name was fictitious, and would not divulge the man's name.

FIREMAN TELLS OF THE YELLOW BOOK

An Allegheny City Employe Describes Collection of Political Assessments.

JUDGE YOUNG ANNOUNCES

The Allegheny fireman who wrote The Gazette, telling about the levying of a political assessment on the North Side employes, has written another letter to The Gazette. He gives additional details concerning the collection of the money. The communication follows in full:

Allegheny City, Aug. 11, 1905.

Editor of The Gazette:

Dear Sir: I see that my letter has raised a bit of a stir in Allegheny. Well, let the good work go on.

I see that the Pittsburgh boys are kicking about getting only 10 days off. Well, they are in luck, as they get this time off with pay, while we in Allegheny get two weeks off without pay. We are supposed to get pay for it but the two assessments made in the last six months just make it even $42 50.

The heading of the Yellow Book reads: "We, the undersigned, do cheerfully give the amount opposite our names for legitimate election purposes."

How Money Is Collected.

We give it because we have to. It must be paid no sooner than September 10 nor later than October 10. The way it is done: The captain of each house gets the men's money for them on the 5th of each month. He will bring it to the engine house and then the men will return to him the amount they signed for, then he takes it to the front, and that is the last we hear of it.

If the men all go together and raise two or three hundred dollars to pay for a detective to work up the case and pay a lawyer to shove it, I think we could stop it forever. I have been on for 14 years and up to the time Wyman went in we only had to pay 1 per cent and that only once or twice, and then it was used in the city election and not for county fights or graft cases. They can't get any more money from the First and Fourth ward houses, so they have to draw on us for expenses.

We hope Campbell gets off next time he is tried, as he was the only one that was man enough to pay his own expenses.

There must have been some Fourth of July funds left that we can have fireworks at fishing camps.

It was not Charles Justice that took the book around to the engine houses, but another City Hall employe, but we don't blame him for he has to do as he is told and put up the cash too.

Well, I think this is all for this time, hoping to see this in the next issue of your paper, I remain yours.

Respects to J. Marron.

Pay my respects to Mr. J. Marron for his good opinions. We are sorry he can't run for mayor.

The Gazette will be glad to receive another letter from this fireman or any other Allegheny city employe who desires to give some of the details of the workings of the "Yellow Book." In a short time Mayor James C. Wyman, through his lieutenants, will be issuing orders to the employes concerning the casting of their votes. As Wyman will not tell the people of Allegheny about it, the employe can through the columns of The Gazette. It is about time for Wyman to shift and the orders to shift with him will soon filter out.

Judge James S. Young yesterday notified Chairman Thomas J. Ford he would be a candidate for the Republican nomination for judge of common pleas court No. 2. He will not be opposed at the primaries nor in the fall election.

An answer was filed in quarter sessions court by a number of voters of the First district of McKees Rocks, to the petition of other voters to have the polling place removed from the engine house to the office of Charles K. Barnhart. The authority of the borough council in passing an ordinance refusing to allow the engine house to be used as a polling place is disputed in the answer. It is also alleged there is an entrance to a barroom from the proposed polling place. September 16 was fixed for a hearing in the case.

Friends of Robert K. Cockrane claim he was last night indorsed as a Republican candidate for the nomination of county recorder by the executive board of the Republican city committee of Allegheny. The meeting was secretly held and the call for the gathering was not sent out until about midnight Thursday. Many of the members of the board are out of the city. It is claimed a quorum was present last night.

Conductor Gives Credit.

Samuel Cunningham, a clerk at the Braddock postoffice, was returning Thursday night from Luna park with a young woman, and when he reached into his pocket he found that his money was gone. He got credit from the conductor for 10 cents.

WYMAN'S PLEDGE IS DISREGARDED

Despite Promise Given Voters Employes Are Asked for Political Contributions.

POLICE ARE NOW IN REBLLION

"We pledge ourselves to support measures that will prevent and punish the levying and collecting of assessments for political purposes from public employes and exacting from them political services."

The foregoing is the seventh of the thirteen pledges that formed the platform upon which Mayor Wyman and his party were voted into control of Allegheny a little more than two years ago. At that time Wyman and those who traveled with him from stump to stump in Allegheny, declared, and it was written in their pledge book, "that the foregoing principle is necessary to the good government of the city of Allegheny."

In the face of this the "yellow book," which is the accepted name for the subscription book presented to city employes for their signatures, is being passed around the various city departments for the second time within eight months. Last December and January when a little extra money was needed by the men for holiday gifts, 2 per cent was extorted from all city employes; not 2 per cent of the monthly wage, but 2 per cent of the year's income.

Cannot Get Information.

Now another similar demand is being made by the Wyman machine and the payroll men are not even getting the satisfaction of an explanation. When they ask to what use the money is to be put they are told it is none of their business. If, individually, they protest at this new "touch" on the plea that all the money they make is needed to keep their families, they are threatened with immediate dismissal.

It was suggested last night by a policeman that making the levy at this time is but one of Wyman's shrewd tricks to get the money when there is a better chance of getting it than at some later day. The blue-coat's theory is that should the administration wait until late in the fall the payroll, not caring for a continuation of Wyman domination in Allegheny, and not fearing so much a dismissal so near the termination of the mayor's term, would refuse to chip in.

Whatever is the arrangement, the "yellow book" is being handed around in some places and is causing a lot of indignation and comment. One city employe who asked what disposition was to be made of the money, or as he put it, "Who gets this money?" was told that he was inquiring into things that did not concern him. All he was expected to do was to sign the book and on the fourth or fifth of next month, when he gets his warrant from the controller's office, to count out the required amount and hand it over to the collector.

Will Collect $15,000.

This latter position will likely fall to Policeman Charles Justice, who is custodian of the "yellow book." This is the extent of the information granted the payroll men who are expected to contribute something over $15,000 for the second time in less than a year.

The police are beginning to think the administration is going to back out and call off the "yellow book" campaign. They seem to have excellent reasons for this opinion in the strenuous objection that has been met in some departments. The city light plant and Howard street pumping station employes have said absolutely they will have nothing to do with the assessment and have proved in union there is strength. If the policy of discharging insubordinate employes is adopted it will be necessary to engage entirely new forces at the city light plant and at Howard street, a thing scarcely to be thought of.

There is no attempt being made by the police to hide their feelings regarding the "yellow book," and it is supposed Wyman has had his scouts out sounding the opinion of the payroll in general. Nor is there any secret being made of the fact the officers are leading their men in the rebellion against further political subscription. In two of the police districts reporting from Central station every man has promised his lieutenant he will positively refuse to sign the book or pay out any money for political purposes.

Cannot Find Wyman.

Nothing can be learned from Mayor Wyman or Director Scandrett concerning their future intentions in regard to the "yellow book." Scandrett came home at the mayor's request to take a hand in the affair, but neither he nor Mayor Wyman can be found in their offices at city hall. Their rendezvous is unknown to the reporters and to others who would like to know what is doing, and nothing is known concerning their movements until something is actually done and becomes public gossip.

LARKIN IS NOW USING A WHITEWASH BRUSH

Exonerates Administration for Making City Pay for Private Watchmen.

Controller Larkin did a job of whitewashing yesterday for the city administration. The controller made an "investigation" yesterday and exonerated the administration for any censure for relieving the Macbeth-Evans Glass Company from paying special policemen to guard their plant by putting the expense upon the city.

The controller said he found that until the first of July the two officers who did special duty at the plant had been paid by the company and since then by the city. He said it was a matter that should be adjusted by the mayor and the police authorities.

Superintendent Wallace said yesterday that the order for the city to pay the police instead of the company continuing to pay them for special work was issued by Director Moore. Wallace said that regardless of the action of Director Moore he would not gwesr to the payroll of these two men without being advised to do so by the city solicitor.

Former Police Captain Frederick said that the order came through A. T. Karr, clerk in the public safety office, who said: "The old man (referring to Director Moore) will not stand to have the company pay anything more."

Hold Couple for Deserting Child.

Mrs. Katherine Smith and S. C. Stevens were held for court yesterday for abandoning an infant boy on July 11 on the South Side. The couple was committed to jail. The woman admitted to the police that she had left the child on a door step, but declared she was forced to do so by circumstances. The child is at the Rosalie Home for Children.

HEAVIEST RAIN IN THE COUNTRY

It Falls in Pittsburgh in Two Installments, Making Precipitation of 1.16 Inches.

DEATHS CAUSED BY THE HEAT

After four deaths and one prostration due directly and indirectly to the heat and humidity, heavy rains yesterday afternoon and evening afforded some relief. The victims are:

MICHAEL CONLEY, aged 45, Washington, Pa.; died at the home of his brother, John, 59 Twelfth street; complained of the heat and fell off his chair, dead.

HERBERT H. TURNER, infant son of Charles W. M. Turner, 87 Clifton avenue, Allegheny; had been suffering from the heat during the day and died in its mothers arms at Liberty avenue and Seventh street.

JOSEPH DEVINE, aged 2, son of Hugh Devine, Brick avenue, McKeesport.

MICHAEL MAGISCH, aged 48, 1238 Warner street, Allegheny; sat in the window to cool off and fell four stories to the ground.

Prostrations:

GEORGE DRAWBY, a mill laborer of Allegheny; overcome by the heat while at work yesterday morning; he was removed to his home, 842 Pike street, Allegheny.

Heaviest Rain in Country.

The total precipitation between about 1 p. m. and 8 p. m. was 1.16 inches. That was more than fell in any other part of the United States. Both showers were heavy falls, yet the one in the afternoon was only .06 of an inch, while the storm in the evening let out 1.10 inches, that rain being heavier and the spell longer.

A rather rare phenomenon was the hour at which the heat was greatest. Ordinarily the thermometer is highest between noon and 4 p. m., but yesterday it was not until 6 p. m. that the mercury climbed to the highest point of the day, 82. At that hour, too, the heat was most oppressive, for while the rays of the sun were striking the earth at a wide angle the air was full of dampness, the humidity being 90. At about 6:45 p. m. the second storm of the day began, and for 15 minutes there was a violent downpour, the drops first falling vertically and then being driven by a 25-mile breeze. After that heavy fall there was more or less rain for the next hour or so.

There was a radical change in the temperature. At 6 p. m. the thermometer stood at 82 degrees, and an hour later it had dropped 12 degrees. The coolness was refreshing.

The following is the record of temperatures for the day:

Eight a. m., 74 degrees; 9, 77; 10, 78; 11, 79; 12, 79; 1 p. m., 75; 2, 78; 3, 76; 4, 81; 5, 81; 6, 82; 7, 70, and 8, 70. It will be observed that between noon and 1 p. m., the temperature fell from 79 to 75, caused by the afternoon rain, and that immediately afterward the mercury rose until it reached its maximum at 6 o'clock.

Lightning Hits Oil Tank.

Lightning struck a 2,500-barrel tank of oil at the Standard Oil works, Fifty-seventh and Butler streets, at 6:40 last night. An alarm was sent in, but the city firemen did not go into service. The plant is equipped with a system for forcing steam into the tanks when a fire starts, with which to smother the flames. This was used last night and at the same time the oil was drawn off into other tanks. It took some hours to get the fire completely out, but the loss will not exceed $250.

Street car traffic in Butler street was suspended for almost an hour. The firemen ran lines across the street and stood ready for work should the fire spread. They refused to move the lines until the danger was past.

A pole carrying the feed line of the Pittsburgh Railways Company in Penn avenue, near Thirteenth street, became charged with electricity last night through an insulator slipping. The wet ground afforded a fine field for the electricity, and the pavement was affected for fully six feet on each side of the pole. The result was that many persons were shocked and thrown to the ground. Several were badly bruised and one man, Al Coleman of No. 1407 Penn avenue, was thrown with such force that an ugly gash was cut in his forehead. Word was sent to the power house and a traction crew fixed the pole.

Greatest Crowd on Record.

A faint idea of the enormous crowd which attended the baseball game last Saturday between New York and Pittsburgh, is obtained from the wonderful photograph which was taken with a gigantic panoramic camera. The picture is 60 inches long and shows the entire field. The illustration is reproduced as a supplement to the Index, Pittsburgh's illustrated weekly. Get a copy early Saturday morning at any news stand in the city. Price only 5 cents. The picture is suitable for framing and alone is worth many times the price of the paper.

MAN OF MILLIONS RUN INTO NET

S. H. Davis, Whose Mode of Operations Was Unique, Is Taken in Charge by Police.

VICTIMS SAID TO BE MANY

S. H. Davis of Toronto, Canada, who posed in this city as president and manager of a $20,000,000 syndicate, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Detective C. G. Rice and is being held at the Central station as a suspicious person. Charges of false pretense will be lodged against him this morning. Although representing himself as a man of wealth he had but $3 when searched at the station house. He is 37 years old.

Davis is also known as S. H. E. Davison, and is an architect. He came to this city about four months ago and secured employment with a contracting firm. He worked for that concern but a short time, and when next heard of it was as "president and manager of the Imperial Steel and Brick Co., Ltd., of New York, Toronto and Pittsburgh." He advertised in the local papers for stenographers, bookkeepers, managers, superintendents, engineers, etc., for his concern. He alleged he has these positions to dispose of and that they paid from $100 a month to $10,000 a year.

Five Dollar Bill Necessary.

Davis, the police say, required the applicant to enclose $5 with his application, which was to be used as expenses in investigating the character of the applicant. Davis is alleged to have received considerable money in this manner. He had no permanent office. When an applicant desired a personal interview before giving up his money, Davis would arrange to meet him in one of the downtown office buildings. He would select a vacant room, write the applicant to meet him there, and on the pretense of renting the office he would secure the key from the janitor of the building for the purpose of inspecting it. While doing so the applicant would walk in.

Davis would explain that the concern was so busy that they had to rent additional offices, and that it was his intention to place the applicant in that office provided he could fill the position. The applicant usually paid him $5.

Davis would leave the applicant in the office and walk away with the money. In one instance a girl applied for a position as a stenographer, meeting Davis by appointment in an unoccupied office. The girl gave him the money and Davis left. The girl told Detective Rice she waited there all day for her new employer to return.

Highly Valuable Brickyard.

A practical steel worker made application for a $5,000 position. This man became incredulous and Davis, to convince him of the reliability of the concern, showed him some papers indicating he owned a brickyard in Carnegie valued at $600,000. He also showed him an application he had made to a local firm of bankers and brokers to borrow $200,000 on that property.

The steel expert gave him $5 to investigate his character, and says he never saw Davis afterward. Davis suggested to applicants that all communications be sent to a local newspaper office, and it was difficult to locate where he lived. Detective Rice learned he was boarding with a Mrs. Bankerd at 5428 Howe street, East End. Last Tuesday Detective Rice went there to interview him, and was told by Mrs. Bankerd that Davis had been unable to pay his room rent.

The woman became suspicious of Davis and thought he might attempt to take personal belongings out of the house. She nailed the windows of his room down, making it necessary for him to retreat by the stairway if he was inclined to depart in that manner. Davis tried to leave, but the woman prevented him.

Yesterday afternoon Davis had an engagement to meet a man at 303 Wood street. Detective Rice learned of this from a scrap of paper found in Davis' room Tuesday afternoon. The detective notified the applicant to inform him when Davis appeared there. This man sent word to the detective bureau yesterday afternoon that Davis was there and Rice placed the man under arrest. Davis admitted there was no such concern as he represented himself to be connected with, but said he was an architect by profession. He is a bright, shrewd-looking fellow. Of the $3 which was found on Davis, he told Detective Rice to give Mrs. Bankerd $2.50. On the surface this representative of millions is now rather weak financially.

Pasteur Treatment for Three.

Thomas Cox and two sons, Edward, aged 11, and John, aged 9, of No. 4030 Cabinet street, were taken to Mercy hospital yesterday to be treated for hydrophobia. A pet dog sank his teeth into the three a week ago. The animal was killed and when an analysis of his blood was made in the Pasteur department of the hospital it was found to contain unmistakable signs of hydrophobia, and their treatment is merely a precaution.

COUNCILMEN GET CUE FROM MAYOR

They Dodge the Fender Meeting and the Committee Quorum Takes No Action.

ROENIGK TRIES NEW TACK

Pittsburgh councilmen were busy at the city hall yesterday dodging a meeting called to take action on the fender question. Acting in harmony with the policy established by Mayor Hays and Director Moore, the councilmen composing the special fender committee did not meet and consequently nothing was done. The committee was appointed on July 10 and has never met.

Common Councilman Andrew Pfannkuch, who was first named on the committee and by custom is chairman, issued the call for the committee for yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Three of the five members responded—Mr. Pfannkuch, A. G. Roenigk and Joseph Schlernitzauer. This was a quorum, but the not very zealous fender committee decided to do nothing until all five members were present, it being known that two, P. J. Barry and Samuel Shenkan, would not attend.

Safe in knowing that Barry and Shenkan would not appear, the other three members of the committee made a pretense of waiting for them and then adjourned without even discussing the fender matter.

Councilman Roenigk, who claims the distinction of starting the fender agitation, is assuming a peculiar position just now. At the meeting of the directors of the Pittsburgh board of trade on Monday night the committee of which he is chairman was authorized to bring mandamus proceedings in Mr. Roenigk's name against Director Moore to compel the latter to enforce the fender ordinance against the Pittsburgh Railways Company. Mr. Roenigk at that time and for a couple of days afterward professed a hearty willingness to proceed with the suit against Director Moore, stating that it was useless to accept any further promises from Director Moore or the administration.

Roenigk assumed a new tack yesterday. Instead of talking fight he was busy seeking more promises from Mayor Hays, and suffered the humiliation of waiting an hour or two before being admitted to the mayor's presence, although he had made an appointment with his honor and many others, who had arrived after Mr. Roenigk, were invited into the mayor's private office ahead of the fender advocate. Mr. Roenigk came out and said that he was confident that a suit would not be necessary against Director Moore after all. He said Mayor Hays promised there would be another test of fenders about September 1, and that a fender would then be selected which the street car company would be asked to adopt.

Mayor Hays said a fender would be approved by Director Moore in September, but that it would be up to the company to equip its cars with fenders. The mayor talked as if the street car company had the whole authority in the matter and that the city was powerless to compel the company to obey the law.

Secretary Lobingier of the board of trade yesterday sent out letters to relatives of persons killed by street cars during the months of June. They are asked to appear at his office in the Park building not later than Monday, and the evidence they shall give is expected to be used in the mandamus case against Director Moore. The list was prepared by Coroner Armstrong.

GANG OF BAD NEGROES.

County Detectives to Be Asked to Assist in Running Down Hold-Up Men.

The county detectives will be asked to assist in breaking up a gang of robbers, said to be negroes, at Versailles station. Two of their crimes are the holdup of Carl G. Henry of Pittsburgh, near the Boston bridge and the attempt to rob Steve Solman, Evans avenue, McKeesport, the latter being confined to the McKeesport hospital with a dozen knife wounds, as a result of his encounter. Many other robberies and petty thefts are attributed to the gang. The negroes usually confine their work to robbing the trunks of foreigners and it is said that much of the thieving never reaches the ears of the police. Detective Charles Moore claims that fully $1,000 has been secured by the robbers in this way during the last few months. The McKeesport police have been unable to do anything.

Henry, who was held up, is said to have failed to return to his home in Pittsburgh and his relatives are alarmed. He was struck on the head by a sandbag, and it is feared his injuries were more severe than at first supposed.

William Fitzhugh of McKeesport reported yesterday that $30 had been taken from his room.

PURCHASE VALUABLE NOTES.

Two New York Firms Agree to Take $8,000,000 Worth, Guaranteed by the Wabash Company.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—(Special.)—Agreements were signed today by which Blair & Co. and W. A. Reed & Co. agreed to purchase $8,000,000 three-year 5 per cent notes of the Wheeling & Lake Erie Company, guaranteed by the Wabash road. It was officially stated that the notes were taken over at par.

Proceeds from the sale of these notes are to furnish the necessary means to complete improvements and property additions which were projected under the administration of Joseph Ramsey, Jr., former president of the road. A portion of the funds is also to be devoted to paying some of the floating indebtedness.

COL. GUFFEY WINS OVER STANDARD

Southern Railroads Cut Rates for Transportation of Oil.

ENDS CLAIM OF UNFAIRNESS

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Room 13, Postal Building,
WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.

When the Louisville & Nashville and Illinois Central railroads today filed with the interstate commerce commission a new schedule of rates on oil from Chicago to the Gulf of Mexico and from New Orleans to northern points, the Gulf Refining Company, of which Col. J. M. Guffey of Pittsburgh is president, scored a decided victory over the Standard Oil Company.

About a month ago complaint was filed with the interstate commerce commission by Col. Guffey's company, through the law firm of Reed, Smith, Shaw & Beal of Pittsburgh, charging that the Louisville & Nashville, Illinois Central, Cincinnati, New Orleans, Texas & Pacific, Alabama Great Southern and New Orleans & Northeastern roads, were discriminating against the independent oil producers of the southern fields in favor of the Standard.

It was alleged that the rates from Chicago to the gulf were but little more than half those charged from New Orleans to Chicago. This enabled the Standard to ship from its Pennsylvania and Ohio and West Virginia fields at a great advantage over the oil produced in the Texas field. Today, without any comment or explanation or without reference to the complaint of Col. Guffey's company, the Louisville & Nashville and Illinois Central filed a new schedule of rates in which the charges from Chicago to New Orleans and from New Orleans to Chicago are equalized. This will remove the advantage of rates, which it is claimed the Standard has been enjoying, and gives the independent producers an equal show.

It is construed as a surrender on the part of the railroads, and if the three other roads complained of follow the lead of the Louisville & Nashville and Illinois Central, as is expected, it will likely stop further proceedings before the interstate commerce commission. The action of today is taken as being equivalent to an answer on the part of the railroads to the complaints of the Gulf Refining Company.

A very clear idea of the advantage heretofore enjoyed by the Standard may be obtained from the following schedule of rates the hundred pounds, which was the cause of complaint.

New Orleans to Chicago, 41 cents; New Orleans to St. Louis, 35 cents; New Orleans to Cincinnati, 33 cents; New Orleans to Louisville, 35 cents; Chicago to New Orleans, 23 cents; St. Louis to New Orleans, 35 cents. Cincinnati to New Orleans, 18 cents, and, as will be seen from these figures, the independent operators of the southwest were prevented from shipping into the Standard's territory, while the Standard was enabled to compete for the trade in the territory of the independents. L. W. STRAYER.

CARELESS WITH REVOLVER.

Young Man from New Orleans Makes Hotel Guests Uneasy and Is Locked Up.

J. V. Gasquet of New Orleans, said to be the son of a wealthy merchant of that city, was arrested in the barroom of the Hotel Henry last night and locked in Central police station as a suspicious person. It is said Gasquet, who was under the influence of liquor, had drawn a revolver from his pocket several times, and some of those near at hand said that he pointed the weapon at Attorney W. A. Linaweaver of Pittsburgh. Mr. Linaweaver says that he did not see this action.

Gasquet said he was in Pittsburgh with the intention of learning the steel manufacturing business. The police, in searching him, found a letter in one of his pockets, evidently written by his mother, in which she told him it was time for him to reform and not to travel around the country any longer spending his money.

For Four Words Selected From

NEXT SUNDAY'S GAZETTE

Rules and Conditions of the "Word Hunt."

The hunt consists of selecting four words from the advertisements appearing in next Sunday's issue of The Pittsburgh Gazette.

In selecting such words you are privileged to use each letter of the alphabet four times, but no more.

Each letter of the alphabet has a value in points, according to its location in the alphabet. For example, A is one point; B, two points, C, three points, etc. This would make the letter Z count twenty-six points.

The persons selecting the four words aggregating the greatest number of points (on the basis described above) will receive the prizes. We give below examples to demonstrate the difference in value of words. Take the word "Furniture."

6—21—18—14—9—20—21—18—5
F—U—R—N—I—T—U—R—E

It contains nine letters and represents 123 points, whereas, you take the word "Handkerchief."

8—1—14—4—11—5—18—3—8—9—6
H—A—N—D—K—E—R—C—H—I—F

It contains twelve letters, which only represent 97 points.

Answers must give the words selected, explain from what ad. they were taken and where the ad. is located in the paper. This is necessary to properly check the answers.

Saturday, August 12, 1905.

Belmont county, Ohio, measures up to President Roosevelt's standard, and deserves honorable mention in the line of family affairs. There were 590 deaths in that county during the last fiscal year, but the births numbered 712 males and 679 females. The marriages solemnized during that period were 567. Considering its population Belmont county is far above the average.

Another letter has been received from the Allegheny fireman who recently complained of the too frequent appearance of the "yellow book." He says the men are expected to sign under a preamble beginning: "We the undersigned cheerfully subscribe," etc. Under the circumstances any man on the Allegheny payroll would be justified in pleading "conscientious scruples" as a reason for not signing the book. "Cheerfully subscribe," indeed.

China is beginning to discover the boycott of American goods, insurance companies and the like is not as one-sided an affair as had been assumed. A financial crisis threatens at Shanghai. Coincidentally the American minister to China is instructed by the president to inform China the stipulations of the treaty of 1858 will be enforced to the letter. It is China's next move. There will be no admission of coolies, but hereafter the privileged classes of Chinese will be accorded the courtesy extended to merchants and travelers from other lands.

James A. Grier, former postmaster of Allegheny and former county controller, is dead. Mr. Grier was active in local politics for many years. His aggressive character made for him many enemies and many friends, the latter predominating. Death removes the sting of enmity, particularly where aroused by measures rather than the man, so all will now join in paying tribute of respect. Mr. Grier had many qualities to admire. His most conspicuous work was in the office of county controller, where he made a record of earnest public service and set the highest standards of efficiency.

Notice given the interstate commerce commission of a change in the rates for carrying oil from the Gulf to Chicago is at once acknowledgment of the charge of inequality and declaration of the purpose to correct the abuse. Two roads have already filed new rates and it is expected others will follow at once. This concession is the result of a complaint filed by the Gulf Refining Company a short time ago, reciting the fact that north bound oil rates were much higher than south bound rates on the same roads. The roads are entitled to some credit for their prompt recognition of the justice of the complaint and their willingness to remedy the fault.

Lady Colin Campbell has doubtless said some things that will be painful reading, for some very excellent women. She very rightfully claims that the woman is the recognized homemaker, and when she fails to make home there can be no home. She points out in a most pertinent manner the causes that drive men to clubs and other resorts. Too often the wife doesn't attempt to become the comrade of her husband. She imagines her duties fulfilled when she has seen to the ordering of the dinner, and tries to kill the rest of her time as best she may. With this view of life the home becomes her prison. The irksomeness thus engendered is the opening wedge to an unhappy wedded life.

President Roosevelt's speech at Chautauqua covered familiar ground. It is notable as indicating he has taken no backward step in the policies that have distinctly marked his administration. His elucidation of the Monroe doctrine, its responsibilities and its limitations was clear and forceful. His attitude toward the great combinations of capital has not changed. In so far as they meet the primary purpose of capitalistic aggregation—the economy of production and distribution—he is in hearty sympathy with them. In so far as they try to use their power to oppress the people the president promises to use the resources of the government to repress their rapacity. That is a sound staud and is good Republican doctrine.

A Subway Fever.

Tunnels and subways are becoming quite the thing in Pittsburgh. When The Gazette noted the application for a charter for a tunnel through Herron Hill, some days ago, and remarked it was an indication of the sure approach of underground transit, it had no thought there would be an immediate flood of underground ventures.

Within the past 10 days notices of intention to apply for charters have been published in behalf of five subway and seven street railway companies to operate in this city. There are at least two distinct interests affected. George H. Flinn admits that he and his father are interested in one set of charters, while Mayor Hays denies that he or Murry A. Verner is interested in the other set, as rumor has said. It matters little who the persons are. If the subways are constructed they will afford welcome relief from street congestion that is becoming serious. No matter who the street railway incorporators may be, they should not be granted franchise for a yard of street without making just compensation to the city for the privilege.

In this connection we must regret the fact that Pittsburgh is not blessed with a board of estimates and awards. The operation of the commission in New York has been followed by the resignation of many members of the board of aldermen. Membership on the board has ceased to be profitable and the old-time aldermen are retiring to go into business. The members of Pittsburgh councils are not likely to resign while they are the sole arbiters of public franchise questions.

The Peace Terms.

Japan's peace terms, as far as the unofficial gossip has made them public, are practically what the world expected. They are entirely reasonable, considering existent conditions. It is understood Russia will not accept the terms as laid down, but will be willing to continue negotiations for a different basis.

Whatever concessions Japan may make from the terms outlined must be credited to a generous spirit and a desire to avoid further human slaughter. The absolute evacuation of Manchuria must be insisted on, for that was the primary object in making war. The cession of Sagkhalien is also a probable fixed purpose. Modifications may be looked for, if at all, in the lump sum of "compensation" in cash, the strictures relating to Vladivostok and a possible credit on account of the Manchurian railroad from Harbin south.

There is no reason to anticipate failure of the negotiations now. Japan will make some concessions. Russia cannot afford to refuse them. Resumption of the war would soon leave the czar's empire worse off and unable to secure as fair terms as are now offered.

Can't Tap the Barrel.

The secret of the nomination of John M. Pattison of Cincinnati as the Democratic standard bearer for governor of Ohio is now percolating. Mr. Pattison has just escaped with his pocketbook and his fare home from a meeting of the Democratic state executive committee at Columbus. He is lucky. It is a wonder the committee did not attach his personal wardrobe and pawn it.

The Ohio Democrats are commercial in their instincts and hoped to finger a big bank roll when they selected Pattison for the tapping. It seems, however, the Democratic candidate for governor knows how to hold onto his own. A desperate assault was made upon him, but it is related that finally, driven to place his back against a wall, he was able to back out with enough for street car fare change. The important development of the meeting was that Mr. Pattison told the committee he refused to play in their hold-up game, and he was not the "easy mark" they had taken him for.

It now looks as if the Democracy had been buncoed in the nominee, who was selected mainly for his barrel. He will roll nothing but a water barrel. The party is also handicapped in its temperance leanings by the presence on the ticket of a brewer. He will roll nothing but a beer barrel. The Prohibition party has refused to indorse or affiliate with them, and the Anti-Saloon league is out of patience with them. It looks to the outsider that Gov. Herrick has a clear field before him for re-election.

Conferences and Results.

Another conference has been held by those West Virginia Republicans who say they are not opposed to Senator Elkins, and forthwith the name of Congressman Joseph B. Gaines of the Third district is advanced for United States senator. Mr. Gaines is the third man named in this connection, no especial enthusiasm having been shown at the mention of Judge Blizzard or Zachary Taylor Vinson. If it is merely a coincidence that a new candidate for senate is announced after each conference of the gentlemen who strenuously opposed the nomination of William M. O. Dawson for governor last year, it is a coincidence that is remarkable.

In any event it may be assumed no fight will be made within the Republican ranks in West Virginia that will endanger the success of the party. The gentlemen who are conferring at White Sulphur Springs, Parkersburg and elsewhere are acting wholly within their constiutional rights. There is no law to prevent their gatherings. They may prefer some one else than Mr. Elkins for senator, but they are not opposed to Mr. Elkins. If they have any grievances they are purely family affairs in which outside interference would not be welcome.

The Business Situation.

Developments of the week were of a distinctly favorable character. First in importance was the report of the government on the crops, estimating the condition as of August 1 for wheat, corn and oats. The indicated yield of corn is 47,000,000 bushels larger than the great crop of 1902, which has heretofore held the record. The promised yield of wheat is at least a hundred million bushels larger than last year, and only a few million bushels below the record crop of 1901. Wheat and corn are our two great export cereals, and this year both promise unusually abundant harvests. The importance of this lies in the fact that this year our production of cotton will likely fall below the average of recent years. The probability is that our exports of cotton during September and October will not be so large as last year, but that this falling off will be offset by increased exports of wheat. The country usually feels easier over the crop-moving season if our exports of cotton or wheat or both are large, because the shipments establish for us a credit abroad upon which we may draw if money market conditions warrant imports of gold.

The promise of abundant crops, which mean heavy traffic, have made railroad managers feel like spending more for equipment, and industrial circles feel more confident of a continuation of active business. The condition of the iron trade is almost buoyant, and the same is true of window glass and building materials generally. Reports from 20 leading cities in the United States show an increase of 55 per cent in building operations during the month of July, as compared with the same month last year.

The average price of a score of leading railroad stocks this week advanced to the highest of the year, and market values are now close to the high level established in 1902, which was the record for more than 10 years. The average price of industrial stocks is close to the highest ever quoted. During the week some of the prominent railroad stocks advanced from 5 to 25 points. Wall street has the machinery for rapidly discounting the future, and in the judgment of conservative financiers current market values have pretty thoroughly discounted the present excellent business situation. This view is strengthened by the fact that there has been no corresponding rise in the bond market. If the current high prices for stocks resulted from a pressure of funds for investment, the movement would overflow into the bond market, but so far this has not happened, and the reasonable inference is that part of the stock market advance this week must be ascribed to manipulation.

The money market has remained easy, but there are indications of higher rates within the next few weeks.

The official showing that out of 1,382,524 steerage passengers embarked for New York in the past three fiscal years, only 423 died on the voyage, suggests the observation that it is safer in the steerage of ocean vessels than in New York City, the death rate in that city being 20.4 per 1,000, against 6.56 on immigrant ships.

With the "Star-eyed Goddess of Reform" back from Europe and doing business at the old stand, it would seem Mr. William Jennings Bryan is chancing a great deal by covering Marse Henry Watterson's tracks in the old world, as it is now the turn for the "man from the headwaters of Bitter Creek to howl."

The New York legislative investigating committee, with a searchlight Diogenes, has finally flushed a couple of lawyers honest enough to take their end of the life insurance inquiry. The next reflection is, who will stand for the honest search of the committee?

According to the statement of Prof. Moore, the head of the weather bureau, there is nothing wrong with his department except that cooler and clearing weather might turn out to be cloudy and stormy. The public can stand for that, but not for graft.

It is costing New Orleans twice as much to clean her streets in entertaining her costly visitor, Yellow Jack, than before the advent of the fever. Municipalities are like certain individuals who never profit by experience.

Some of the New York papers have left very little for the Russo-Japanese peace conference to do. It is highly probable, however, the peace conference has a mind of its own, and will transact business in its own way.

Ex-President Cleveland has survived every member of his first cabinet, with the exception of former Secretary Vilas. Whether it is a survival of the fittest is a question that the future may answer.

The Democratic candidate for governor of Ohio refused to allow the state executive committee to tap his barrel. A Democrat generally knows whether such a thing is worth while.

It is now time to form a party to rescue Peary from the perils of the Arctic zone. There appears to be always something doing in the region of the North Pole.

Louisville young men have organized a club to "mash the mashers" of that city. The big stick could be used in this city with some comprehensive results.

President Roosevelt jumps from temperance at Wilkesbarre to the Monroe doctrine at Chautauqua. His limitations have not yet been reached.

Magistrate Moke of Pittsburgh and Magistrate Moss of New York are two of a kind, and there appears to be no relief in sight from either.

So long as the corn is all right, the country is all right. The fields are now waving for a record-breaking garnering.

Don't blame it all on the vocal mosquito. New Orleans has the worst water supply of any city in the world.

Russia will evidently want a rebate in settling the war score with Japan.

Wheat Growing Profits in Kansas.

Many 160-acre wheat fields in Rooks county, Kansas, are paying a clean profit of $1,500 after counting all the work done on them as cash expense. Where the work is all done by the man himself and his family the cash returns in many cases are about the $2,000 mark.—Kansas City Journal.

QUIET OBSERVATIONS

By ERASMUS WILSON.

The soap habit is not all that is claimed for it, or rather it is more and worse than those who have it think it is.

It is not generally known, although it is a fact, that famous beauties never use soap on the face or hands, or body, or at least hardly ever.

In all probability you were taught to use soap freely and often, and when taking a bath you had to soap yourself all over and then scrub with a flesh brush, long or short handled, or rub with a sanitary mitt or rubber sponge.

And in all probability you were never taught the why and wherefore of this soaping and scrubbing, nor have you ever thought about it, much less made careful inquiry concerning it.

If you think about it at all you think you use soap to take the dirt off. It certainly does loosen it up mightily and makes it easier to scrub it and other things off.

Have you ever thought about the other things it takes off, and about the effects of their taking off?

Just here is where the trouble comes in. If there is any trouble, and there is likely to be some more or less serious.

It is just such little things that make our lives miserable and lead to failure.

* * *

Had you studied anatomy and physiology to the extent that every man, woman and child should study it, you would know that soap, even of the mildest sort, is destructive of the scales which form the epidermis, or outer layer of the skin.

You would hardly know this, however, if you have only studied it at school, for there is not a school physiology, unless very recently published, that is worth while studying. As a rule they consist of a lot of technical stuff taken from standard works, and apparently only the dryest, most uninteresting and unprofitable is selected.

The fact of the matter is that the human skin is practically self-cleaning if its normal functions are not interfered with too much. And the greatest possible interference is with soap and scrubbing brush.

* * *

Without going into details concerning the anatomical structure of the skin, suffice it to say that it consists of several different layers, each of which is wonderfully well adapted to the protection and health of the body.

One of its more striking peculiarities is its adjustment to heat and cold, and the automatic arrangement for maintaining an even temperature for the body.

This arrangement is so well adapted to the purpose, and so accurate that the temperature varies only a fraction of one degree between the coldest weather in winter and the hottest in summer. No matter how hot or cold you feel, or how profusely you perspire, or how you shiver, your temperature remains the same.

* * *

Turning from the school physiology to the encyclopedia you are only getting out of the frying pan into the fire, as the following extracts from one of these great compendiums of information will show:

"For description the epidermis is divided from within outward into four layers, the stratum mucosum, the stratum granulosum, the stratum lucidum, and the stratum corneum. The stratum mucosum, called also the reta mucosum or Malpighii, the mucos or prickly layer, consists of several superimposed strata of cells, which fill in the interpapillary spaces of the corium, and present an undulating plane surface to the layer next above."

That is about as clear as mud to anyone who has not spent a year or two in the close study of anatomy.

* * *

Concerning the physiology of the skin the same authority speaks thus plainly and concisely:

"All the dermal structures participate in the protective functions of the skin. The connective and adipose tissue of the hyproderm; the dense fibrous and elastic meshwerk of the corium; and the horny cells of the epidermis, rendered unctious by glandulor secretion, are together admirably adapted to guard the deeper structures from injury by mechanical violence; to prevent undue loss of heat and fluids from within, and to resist the penetrating or destructive action of fluids from without."

This is true enough, and well told, too, from a technical point of view, but do you catch on?

* * *

If you got an idea, or an inkling of anything from the foregoing it is that the skin is the roof of the body, and that the outer layer, the corneum, or horny layer, is to the skin what a coat of hard paint is to a roof.

Would you consider it wise, or even commonly sensible, to scrub that coat of paint two or three times a day with soap and brush? Washing with clean water not only does no harm but is beneficial in a measure.

If this paint could only grow from beneath as fast as it wastes on top it would resemble the finishing coat of the skin very closely. Not having this advantage it becomes necessary to restore the waste by adding fresh coats of paint to the outside.

* * *

The outer surface of the skin exfoliates, or scales off rapidly. This process is going on so constantly that the entire surface is renewed every day or oftener in the more exposed parts.

These scales being dry and slightly oily they do not adhere to the skin but drop off as soon as they become loosened, unless the surface is quite moist or wet. But as soon as they become dry they drop off or adhere to the clothing.

Rubbing with a dry cloth when the skin is dry removes them more successfully than will a wet or moist cloth, the moisture in the latter causing them to adhere to the surface.

From this it would appear that a dry bath is really more cleansing than a wet one, and judging from the benefits arising from sun baths this is really true.

It is the accumulation of these dead scales on the clothing and moist surface of the skin that constitutes the dirt about which we hear so much complaint, and these are most effectively gotten rid of by the dry process.

* * *

Soap not only decomposes these dead scales to an extent, but it destroys the new ones, thus interfering with the proper function of the skin.

The coloring matter in the skin lies beneath this heavy coat, and when the latter is eaten off by soap or otherwise it is either destroyed, as shown by sallowness, or it becomes changed in quality. Splotchy of spotted complexions are caused in this way.

There are times when a little soap is necessary, or at least convenient for the removal of grease or tenacious substances from the skin, but ordinarily it is not only unnecessary but really does more or less harm.

The free use of soap on the face, neck and hands causes them to become sallow and wrinkled, while other parts of the body on which soap is not used so freely or not at all, remains soft, pliable and clear.

* * *

If you have the soap habit these "true facts" concerning it will hardly be sufficient to induce you to break it off, but they may cause you to think it over, and to act a little more judiciously, if not to prompt you to do some experimenting on your own account.

Were people to pay more attention to the simple details pertaining to life and not so much to advertisements, and to popular fables, it would be a whole lot better for them, better in every way, for health and strength makes us feel satisfied with the world, and all contained therein.

Becoming a Knotty Problem.

TALKED OF IN GOTHAM

By FRANK A. PARKER.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—No hostelry below St. Paul's chapel equals in up-to-date fittings the Lutheran German Immigrant house, just completed at 5 State street. The stranger can now step from the steerage to the cleanest and coolest quarters ever prepared for immigrants. The new six-story building stands directly opposite the immigrant landing, and is a great contrast to the old buildings by which it is surrounded. Guests to the number of 150 can be accommodated, each having his own room, and there are suites for the use of families.

A dozen congregations have each furnished a room in the building, which was erected under the general direction of the general council of the Lutheran church. It is a hotel and house of worship combined, as on the second floor is a chapel where services will be held daily. The mission has been in existence for 30 years, and formerly occupied the site of the new custom house. It has provided for 4,000,000 immigrants, and during the hard winter of 1893 gave away 25,000 meals. While the new building is especially for the use of German immigrants, the charter association says that "none shall be excluded from the benefits because of belief or nationality." If a guest cannot pay he may remain free of charge until he "gets on his feet."

Park Seats for Women's Use.

Commissioner of Parks Pallas has indorsed the idea that a certain number of seats in each of the small parks and rest centers of the city should be reserved for the use of women and children only. As it is now, one need never expect to find courtesy rampant in these parks. Men sprawl over the benches, leaving women to stand or walk about carrying children in their arms. Then, too, the tramps who gather in the parks do not leave the benches in the best sanitary condition. It might be a good plan to establish bath houses in the neighborhood and compel the "hobos" to take a bath before occupying the benches.

Nurses Visit Department Stores.

An experiment being tried in Newark, N. J., is being watched with interest by many people in New York. The Visiting Nurse association of that city has made an agreement with the Mutual Aid association of the large department stores to visit their sick employes and receive a fee of 25 cents, for each visit. The nurse visits the store twice a week and sees the doctor. In the meantime calls are sent by telephone if necessary. In many factories, posters have been placed, offering the services of the nurses, and the scheme is meeting with much favor. If it meets with success in Newark, it is likely to be tried on a larger scale in New York.

Recorder Goff Scores Hotels.

In sentencing James A. Ferrell to prison for two years for enticing a young girl into a hotel, Recorder Goff paid his compliments to the fake hotels of New York. "I am informed that there are a number of hotels in New York which are conducted for the purpose of luring young girls from other cities and causing their ruin," said the recorder. "I regard the prisoner a menace to the community, and I shall give him the maximum sentence under the law." The recorder probably has not heard half the truth about the fake hotels of the city, much as the police know on the subject, they are allowed to run without restraint.

Trouble Ahead for Street Car Men.

The spotters sent out to see that conductors and motormen obey the order to make a complete stop to take on or let off passengers, are likely to make trouble of all sorts. Stopping at crossings, for any excuse whatever, is one thing car crews object to. The company had no reason to complain of this condition until a number of suits were filed asking damages for injuries caused by the carelessness of the employes. The company is anxious to keep the cars on schedule time, but not enough so to pay big damages for the privilege of skipping the crossings. Therefore the spotter to catch the careless motormen and conductors.

It Costs Money to Swear.

Magistrate Pool gave a conductor a lesson in politeness today, assessing him $5 for the trouble. Miss Cora Miskel, an actress, was the complainant, and she had her mother in court with her to back her up. She charged Conductor John Downing with having sworn at her when she handed him a $5 bill from which to take her fare. He admitted the charge, but when the young woman repeated to the court what she claimed the conductor said, he called her a liar, and said she made his language too strong. The court took the complainant's side of the story. "A street car conductor must be a silent martyr," remarked Downing. "I lost my temper just once, and now I'll lose my job."

Uncle Sam Needs Carpenters.

Any carpenter out of a job, who is willing to go to the canal zone and take his chances on being eaten up by mosquitoes, can get all the work he can do by applying to Uncle Sam, the great builder of canals. The men are just now needed in the construction of quarters for the officers and men who will do the digging. All applications should be addressed to the United States civil service commission at Washington, or to the examining board at the New York custom house.

Has Confidence in Wilson.

Honest himself, Secretary Wilson of the agricultural department thought all of his subordinates were. He knows better now. The discovery has not, however, convinced him that it is his duty to resign. On the contrary, he feels that he should remain in office and purge his department of graft, and there is no reason for thinking that he will not be able to do it.—Scranton Republic.

PICKED UP IN LOBBIES

Fire Chiefs Going to Convention.

Miles S. Humphreys, chief of the Pittsburgh bureau of fire, accompanied by Mrs. Humphreys, will leave today for Cleveland, where he will join a delegation of fire chiefs of the east who are going to the annual convention of the Fire Engineers' association of the United States. This convention is to be held at Duluth, and will call together the heads of the fire departments of every city in the country for discussion of methods and materials for fighting fires. It will be a gathering of men of wits and fire in their personal temperaments, men who have often faced danger and death in their chosen work for the good of mankind.

Chief Humphreys and several other chiefs of this district believe in making the trip to and from the convention city as pleasant as possible, and they have selected the trip by lake steamer. They will leave Cleveland tomorrow on the steamer Northwest of the Northern Steamship Company's line, enjoying several days en route to Duluth. Among those who will accompany Chief and Mrs. Humphreys will be Chief and Mrs. Cline of Wheeling, Chief and Mrs. Vandevort of Sharon, and Chief and Mrs. Connery of New Castle.

Lake Traffic Grows 40 Per Cent.

L. D. Kitchell, district passenger agent of the Great Northern railway and the Great Northern and Northern steamship companies in this district, who arranged for the trip of the fire chiefs to Duluth, said last night that the lake business this year will better last season's business by at least 40 per cent, and possibly 50. The boats plying over the lake waters between Buffalo and Cleveland on the east and Chicago and Duluth on the west are always booked full, there being Pittsburghers on almost every trip made by either of the company's two fine vessels. Passenger men are surprised at the enormous summer vacation travel in every direction, and, of course, they are pleased to see this manifestation of the people. There will be hardly a single road or steamship line that will report lighter travel than last year, unless it may be that some of the St. Louis lines will have a smaller amount of traffic because of the world's fair having been held there last summer.

Mr. Kitchell received a telegraphic report yesterday of the passenger train operations on the Great Northern, one of the roads included in the telegraphers' strike in the northwest. The report showed every train arrived at St. Paul on time this week.

Novel Prison Methods in Kansas.

One of the members of the state board of prisons of Kansas, who admitted being from Wilson, Kas., but who refused to allow his name to be used for publication, while passing through Pittsburgh on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, said that some novel features are included in the prison work in Kansas and that others are to be introduced by the board in a short time. The man has been in the east studying prison methods. One of the novel parts of the state prison work is a twine factory, where twine is manufactured for use at the other state institutions in the harvesting of crops on the farms at those places. It has been found that the twine can be manufactured at 3½ cents a pound, as against 10 cents a pound, the retail price of twine. This manufacture does not include the cost of labor, which, in this instance, is nothing. The factory has been found too small, and it will be trebled in size. The prison board also contemplates purchasing a large farm upon which short-term prisoners are to work under guard. The board believes that such a farm would produce sufficient crops, vegetables, etc., to supply all of the state institutions at a much lower cost than at present.

Medicos Had a Feast.

Dr. S. Fichel, the man who holds all the baby incubator concessions at the many amusement resorts in this country, last evening gave a dinner to local members of the medical profession whom he has met during his residence in Pittsburgh. The dinner was given in the comfortable quarters Dr. Fichel has fitted up for himself in the old Aspinwall residence at Luna park, and which has been given over for incubator purposes. Covers were laid for 36, and at a late hour last night 12 courses had been disposed of.

Little Traveler Going West.

"To John F. Myers, Harrisburg, Saline county, Illinois," was the inscription on a card attached to the coat of a nine-year-old, dirty-faced boy at the Union station last evening.

The boy claimed that his home had been in Dauphin county, Pennsylvania. Several weeks ago his mother died and after that, he said, his father treated him so cruelly that he was compelled to leave home. The child gained the sympathy of passengers on the train, who saw that he had plenty to eat on his arrival here. He started west last night under the guidance of two other boys who were going as far as Indianapolis.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT DISCUSSES THE MONROE DOCTRINE AND GOOD CITIZENSHIP

RAIN AND CHEERS GREET PRESIDENT

Inclement Weather Has No Effect on Chautauqua Crowds Who Meet Him.

SPEAKS ON MONROE DOCTRINE

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., Aug. 11.—President Roosevelt arrived here at 8:45 a. m. on a special car over the Chautauqua traction line. The presidential train arrived at Lakewood at 2:05 a. m., over the Erie railroad, and was placed upon a siding. The trip from East Waverly was without special incident. Some time during the night after the arrival of the train at Lakewood one of the secret service officers was robbed of a valuable watch, while asleep.

At 7 o'clock President Roosevelt appeared on the platform of his car for a breath of fresh air. The rain which had been falling for several hours was then coming down in torrents, and the hills about the lake reverberated with almost continuous rolls of thunder. The Chautauqua committee, composed of Bishop John H. Vincent, Dr. George T. Vincent, Ira Miller and J. C. Neville, waited upon President Roosevelt at 7:30. After an exchange of greetings the president was escorted to a private car on the trolley line and the short trip to the assembly grounds was begun.

As early as 8 o'clock 10,000 people had assembled at the amphitheater to secure seats. The route over which the president came to the grounds had not been made public and only a few hundred people greeted him when the car arrived at the road gate. The party at once entered carriages and were escorted to Higgins hall where a breakfast was given by the Chautauqua trustees. About 125 prominent Chautauquans from Western New York were present. There was no speech making, but President Roosevelt held an informal reception and greeted many of the guests well-known to him.

Greets a Little American.

The breakfast was served by the department of domestic science, the waiters being young women of well-known Chautauqua families.

At 10:43 the president and party were taken for a 30-minute drive through the Chautauqua grounds, escorted by a guard of honor from the Thirteenth separate company. As the president alighted from his carriage he discovered a bright 2-year-old waving an American flag in the arms of his father.

"Ah," said the president, "here is a little Chautauquan who is going to grow into a good American citizen," and to the delight of the father and mother the president chucked the future American under the chin.

Through a line of 800 boys and girls the president was escorted to the assembly amphitheater, his way being strewn with flowers. When he appeared on the platform President Roosevelt was greeted by 10,000 people with cheers and the Chautauqua salute. Bishop Vincent introduced President Roosevelt to the great audience in a few simple sentences. The president was given an ovation. He spoke as follows:

Today I wish to speak to you on one feature of our national foreign policy and one feature of our national domestic policy.

The Monroe doctrine is not a part of international law. But it is the fundamental feature of our entire foreign policy so far as the western hemisphere is concerned, and it has more and more been meeting with recognition abroad. The reason why it is meeting with this recognition is because we have not allowed it to become fossilized, but have adapted our construction of it to meet the growing, changing needs of this hemisphere. Fossilization, of course, means death, whether to an individual, a government or a doctrine.

It is out of the question to claim a right and yet shirk the responsibility for exercising that right. When we announce a policy such as the Monroe doctrine we thereby commit ourselves to accepting the consequences of the policy, and these consequences from time to time alter.

What the Doctrine Really Is.

Let us look for a moment at what the Monroe doctrine really is. It forbids the territorial encroachment of non-American powers on American soil. Its purpose is partly to secure this nation against seeing great military powers obtain new footholds in the western hemisphere, and partly to secure to our fellow republics south of us the chance to develop along their own lines without being oppressed or conquered by non-American powers. As we have grown more and more powerful our advocacy of this doctrine has been received with more and more respect; but what has tended most to give the doctrine standing among the nations is our growing willingness to show that we not only mean what we say and are prepared to back it up, but that we mean to recognize our obligations to foreign peoples no less than to insist upon our own rights.

We cannot permanently adhere to the Monroe doctrine unless we succeed in making it evident in the first place that we do not intend to treat it in any shape or way as an excuse for aggrandizement on our part at the expense of the republics to the south of us; second, that we do not intend to permit it to be used by any of these republics as a shield to protect that republic from the consequences of its own misdeeds against foreign nations; third, that inasmuch as by this doctrine we prevent other nations from interfering on this side of the water, we shall ourselves in good faith try to help those of our sister republics which need such help, upward toward peace and order.

No Desire to Extend Our Lines.

As regards the first point we must recognize the fact that in some South American countries there has been much suspicion lest we should interpret the Monroe doctrine in some way inimical to their interests. Now let it be understood once for all that no just and orderly government on this continent has anything to fear from us. There are certain of the republics south of us which have already reached such a point of stability, order and prosperity that they are themselves, although as yet hardly consciously, among the guarantors of this doctrine. No stable and growing American republic wishes to see some great non-American military power acquire territory in its neighborhood. It is the interest of all of us on this continent that no such event should occur, and in addition to our own republic there are now already republics in the regions south of us which have reached a point of prosperity and power that enables them to be considerable factors in maintaining this doctrine which is so much to the advantage of all of us. It must be understood that under no circumstances will the United States use the Monroe doctrine as a cloak for territorial aggression. Should any of our neighbors, no matter how turbulent, how disregardful of our rights, finally get into such a position that the utmost limits of our forbearance are reached, all the people south of us may rest assured that no action will ever be taken save what is absolutely demanded by our self-respect; that this action will not take the form of territorial aggrandizement on our part, and that it will only be taken at all with the most extreme reluctance and not without having exhausted every effort to avert it.

Will Not Save from Evil Doing.

As to the second point, if a republic to the south of us commits a tort against a foreign nation, such, for instance, as wrongful action against the persons of citizens of that nation, then the Monroe doctrine does not force us to interfere to prevent punishment of the tort, save to see that the punishment does not directly or indirectly assume the form of territorial occupation of the offending country. The case is more difficult when the trouble ways refused to enforce such contractual obligations. Our own government has always refused to enforce such contractual obligations on behalf of its citizens by the appeal to arms. It is much to be wished that all foreign governments would take the same view. But at present this country would certainly not be willing to go to war to prevent a foreign government from collecting a just debt or to back up some one of our sister republics in a refusal to pay just debts; and the alternative may in any case prove to be that we shall ourselves undertake to bring about some arrangement by which so much as is possible of the just obligation shall be paid. Personally I should always prefer to see this country step in and put through such an arrangement rather than let any foreign country undertake it.

I do not want to see any foreign power take possession permanently or temporarily of the custom houses of an American republic in order to enforce its obligations, and the alternative may at any time be that we shall be forced to do so ourselves.

Must Help the Weaker Ones.

Finally, and what is in my view, really the most important thing of all, it is our duty, so far as we are able, to try to help upward our weaker brothers. Just as there has been a gradual growth of the ethical element in the relations of one individual to another, so that with all the faults of our Christian civilization it yet remains true that we are, no matter how slowly, more and more coming to recognize the duty of bearing one another's burdens, similarly I believe that the ethical element is by degrees entering into the dealings of one nation with another.

Under strain of emotion caused by sudden disaster this feeling is very evident. A famine or a plague in one country brings much sympathy and some assistance from other countries. Moreover, we are now beginning to recognize that weaker people have a claim upon us, even when the appeal is made, not to our emotions by some sudden calamity, but to our consciences by a long continuing condition of affairs.

I do not mean to say that nations have more than begun to approach the proper relationship one to another, and I fully recognize the folly of proceeding upon the assumption that this ideal condition can now be realized in full—for, in order to proceed upon such an assumption, we would first require some method of forcing recalcitrant nations to do their duty, as well as of seeing that they are protected in their rights.

Our Record in Cuba.

In the interest of justice, it is as necessary to exercise the police power as to show charity and helpful generosity. But something can even now be done toward the end in view. That something, for instance, this nation has already done as regards Cuba, and is now trying to do as regards Santo Domingo. There are few things in our history in which we should take more genuine pride than the way in which we liberated Cuba, and then, instead of instantly abandoning it to chaos, stayed in direction of the affairs of the island until we had put it on the right path, and finally gave it freedom and helped it as it started on the life of an independent republic.

Santo Domingo has now made an appeal to us to help it in turn, and not only every principle of wisdom but every generous instinct within us bids us respond to the appeal. The conditions in Santo Domingo have for a number of years grown from bad to worse until recently all society was on the verge of dissolution. Fortunately just at this time a wise ruler sprung up in Santo Domingo, who, with his colleagues, saw the dangers threatening their beloved country, and appealed to the friendship of their great and powerful neighbor to help them. The immediate threat came to them in the shape of foreign intervention. The previous rulers of Santo Domingo had recklessly incurred debts, and owing to her internal disorders she had ceased to be able to provide means of paying the debts. The patience of her foreign creditors had become exhausted, and at least one foreign nation was on the point of intervention and was only prevented from intervening by the official assurance of this government that it would itself strive to help Santo Domingo in her hour of need. Of the debts incurred some were just, while some were not of a character which really renders it obligatory on, or proper for, Santo Domingo to pay them in full. But she could not pay any of them at all unless some stability was assured.

Receivership of San Domingo.

Accordingly the executive department of our government negotiated a treaty under which we are to try to help the Dominican people to straighten out their finances. This treaty is pending before the senate, whose consent to it is necessary. In the meantime we have made a temporary arrangement which will last until the senate has had time to take action upon the treaty. Under this arrangement we see to the honest administration of the custom houses, collecting the revenues, turning over 45 per cent to the government for running expenses and putting the other 55 per cent into a safe deposit for equitable division among the various creditors, whether European or American, accordingly as, after investigation, their claims seem just.

The custom houses offer well nigh the only sources of revenue in Santo Domingo, and the different revolutions usually have as their real aim the obtaining possession of these custom houses. The mere fact that we are protecting the custom houses and collecting the revenue with efficiency and honesty has completely discouraged all revolutionary movement, while it has already produced such an increase in the revenues that the government is actually getting more from the 45 per cent that we turn over to it than it got formerly when it took the entire revenue. This is enabling the poor harassed people of Santo Domingo once more to turn their attention to industry and to be free from the curse of interminable revolutionary disturbance. It occurs to all bona-fide creditors, American and European, the only really good chance to obtain that to which they are justly entitled, while it in turn gives to Santo Domingo the only opportunity of defense against claims which it ought not to pay—for now if it meets the views of the senate we shall ourselves thoroughly examine all these claims, whether American or foreign, and see that none that are improper are paid. Indeed, the only effective opposition to the treaty will probably come from dishonest creditors, foreign and American, and from the professional revolutionists of the island itself. We have already good reason to believe that some of the creditors who do not dare expose their claims to honest scrutiny are endeavoring to stir up opposition to the treaty both in Santo Domingo and here, trusting that in one place or the other it may be possible to secure either the rejection of the treaty or else its amendment in such fashion as to be tantamount to rejection.

Order Following Chaos.

Under the course taken, stability and order and all the benefits of peace are at last coming to Santo Domingo, all danger of foreign intervention has ceased, and there is at last a prospect that all creditors will get justice, no more and no less. If the arrangement is terminated, chaos will follow; and if chaos follows, sooner or later this government may be involved in serious difficulties with foreign governments over the island, or else may be forced itself to intervene in the island in some unpleasant fashion. Under the present arrangement the independence of the island is scrupulously respected, the danger of violation of the Monroe doctrine by the intervention of foreign powers vanishes, and the interference of our government is minimized, so that we only act in conjunction with the Santo Domingo authorities to secure the proper administration of the customs, and therefore to secure the payment of just debts and to secure the Santo Dominican government against demands for unjust debts. The present method prevents there being any need of our establishing any kind of protectorate over the island and gives the people of Santo Domingo the same chance to move onward and upward which we have already given to the people of Cuba. It will be doubly to our discredit as a nation if we fail to take advantage of this chance; for it will be of damage to ourselves, and above all, it will be of incalculable damage to Santo Domingo. Every consideration of wise policy, and, above all, every consideration of large generosity, bids us meet the request of Santo Domingo as we are now trying to meet it.

The Corporation Question.

So much for one feature of our foreign policy. Now for one feature of our domestic policy. One of the main features of our national governmental policy should be the effort to secure adequate and effective supervisory and regulatory control over all great corporations doing an interstate business. Much of the legislation aimed to prevent the evils connected with the enormous development of these great corporations has been ineffective partly because it aimed at doing too much, and partly because it did not confer upon the government a really efficient method of holding any guilty corporation to account. The effort to prevent all restraint of competition, whether harmful or beneficial, has been ill-judged; what is needed is not so much the effort to prevent combination as a vigilant and effective control of the combinations formed, so as to secure their just and equitable dealing on their part alike toward the public generally, towards their smaller competitors, and toward the wage-workers in their employ.

Under the present laws we have in the last four years accomplished much that is of substantial value; but the difficulties in the way have been so great as to prove that further legislation is advisable. Many corporations show themselves honorably desirous to obey the law; but, unfortunately, some corporations, happily very many ones at that, exhaust every effort which can be suggested by the highest ability, or secured by the most lavish expenditure of money, to defeat the purposes of the laws on the statute books.

Are a Threat to Nation.

Not only the men in control of these corporations, but the business world generally, ought to realize that such conduct is in every way perilous and constitutes a menace to the nation generally, and especially to the people of great property.

I earnestly believe that this is true of only a relatively small portion of the very rich men engaged in handling the largest corporations; but the power of the combined of these comparatively few men does undoubtedly harm the country, and above all harm the men of large means, by the just, but sometimes fully-aroused, popular indignation to which it gives rise. The consolidation in the form of what are popularly called trusts of corporate interests of immense value has tended to produce unfair restraints of trade of an oppressive character, and these unfair restraints tend to create great artificial monopolies. The violations of the laws known as the anti-trust law, which was meant to meet the conditions thus arising, have more and more become confined to a large few combinations, the very ones against whose policy of monopoly and oppression the policy of the law was chiefly directed.

Beef Packers Must Suffer.

Many of these combinations by secret methods and by protracted litigation are still unwisely seeking to avoid the consequences of their illegal action. The government has very properly exercised moderation in attempting to enforce the criminal provisions of the statute; but it has become our duty, as in some cases, notably such as that of at least certain of the beef packers recently indicted in Chicago, it is impossible longer to show leniency. Moreover, if the existing law proves to be inadequate, so that under established rules of evidence clear violations may not be readily proved, defiance of the law must inevitably lead to further legislation. This legislation may be more drastic than I would prefer. If so, it must be distinctly understood that it will be because of the stubborn determination of some of the great combinations to struggle against the enforcement of the law as it stands, by every device, legal and illegal. Very many of these men seem to think that the alternative is simply between admitting to the mild kind of governmental control we advocate and the complete freedom to do whatever they think best. They are greatly in error. Either they will have to submit to reasonable supervision and regulation by the national authorities, or else they will ultimately have to submit to governmental action of a far more drastic type. Personally, I think our people would be most unwise if they let any exasperation due to the acts of certain great corporations drive them into drastic action, and I should oppose such action. But the great corporations are themselves to blame if by their opposition to what is legal and just they foster the popular feeling which tells for such drastic action.

Power to Remedy Abuses.

Some great corporations resort to every technical expedient to render enforcement of the law impossible, and their obstructive tactics and refusal to acquiesce in the policy of the law have taxed to the utmost the machinery of the department of justice. In my judgment congress may well inquire whether it should not seek other means for carrying into effect the law. I believe that all corporations engaged in interstate commerce should be under the supervision of the national government. I do not believe in taking steps hastily or rashly, and it may be that all that is necessary in the immediate future is to pass an interstate commerce bill conferring upon some branch of the executive government the power of effective action to remedy the abuses in connection with railway transportation. But in the end, and in my judgment at a time not very far off, we shall have to, or at least we shall find that we ought to, take further action as regards all corporation doing interstate business.

The enormous increase in interstate trade, resulting from the industrial development of the last quarter of a century, makes it proper that the federal government should, so far as may be necessary to carry into effect its national policy, assume a degree of administrative control of these great corporations.

Control of Corporations.

It may well be that we shall find that the only effective way of exercising this supervision is to require all corporations engaged in interstate commerce to produce proof satisfactory, say, to the department of commerce, that they are not parties to any contract or combination or engaged in any monopoly in interstate trade in violation of the anti-trust law, and that their conduct on certain other specified points is proper; and, moreover, that these corporations shall agree, with a penalty of forfeiture of their right to engage in such commerce, to furnish any evidence of any kind as to their trade between the states whenever so required by the department of commerce.

It is the almost universal policy of the several states, provided by statute, that foreign corporations may lawfully conduct business within their boundaries only when they produce certificates that they have complied with the requirements of their respective state; in other words, that corporations shall not enjoy the privileges and immunities afforded by the state governments without first complying with the policy of their laws. Now the benefits which corporations engaged in interstate trade enjoy under the United States government are incalculable; and in respect of such trade the jurisdiction of the federal government is supreme when it chooses to exercise it.

When, as is now the case, many of the great corporations consistently strain the last resources of legal technicality to avoid obedience to a law for the reasonable regulation of their business, the only way effectively to meet this attitude on their part is to give to the executive department of the government a more direct and therefore more efficient supervision and control of their management.

No Enemy of the Wealthy.

In speaking against the abuses committed by certain very wealthy corporations or individuals, and of the necessity of seeking so far as it can safely be done to remedy these abuses, there is always danger lest what is said may be misinterpreted as an attack upon men of means generally. Now, it cannot too often be repeated in a republic like ours that the only way by which it is possible permanently to benefit the condition of the less able and less fortunate is so to shape our policy that all industrious and efficient people who act decently may be benefited; and this means, of course, that the benefit will come even more to the more able and more fortunate. If under such circumstances the less fortunate man is moved by envy of his more fortunate brother to strike at the conditions under which they have both, through equality, prospered, he may rest assured that while the result may be damaging to the other man, it will be even more damaging to himself. Of course, I am now speaking of prosperity that comes under normal and proper conditions.

In our industrial and social system the interests of all men are so closely interwined that what injures any big man hurts all of the straight-dealing man who by ingenuity and industry benefits himself must also benefit others. The man of great productive capacity who sets rich through guiding the labor of hundreds or thousands of other men does so, as a rule, by enabling their labor to produce more than it would without his guidance, and both he and they share in the benefit, so that even if the share be unequal it must never be forgotten that they too are really benefited by his success.

Leaders Should Be Cheered.

A vital factor in the success of any enterprise is the guiding intelligence of the man at the top, and there is used in the interest of all of us to encourage rather than to discourage the activity of the exceptional men who guide average men so that their labor may result in increased production of the kind and quality demanded at the time. Normally we help the wage-worker, we help the man of small means, by making conditions such that the man of exceptional business ability receives an exceptional reward for that ability.

But while insisting with all emphasis upon this, it is also true that experience has shown that when there is no governmental restraint or supervision some of the exceptional men use their energies, not in ways that are for the common good, but in ways which tell against this common good; and that by so doing they not only wrong smaller and less able men—whether wage-workers or small employers, tradesmen—but force other men of exceptional abilities themselves to do what is wrong under penalty of falling behind in the keen race for success. There is need of legislation to strive to meet such abuses. At one time or in one place this legislation may take the form of factory laws and employers' liability laws. Under other conditions it may take the form of dealing with the franchises which derive their value from the grant of the representatives of the people. It may be aimed at the manifold abuses, far-reaching in their effects, which spring from overcapitalization. Or it may be necessary to meet such conditions as those with which I am now dealing, and to strive to procure proper supervision and regulation by the national government of all great corporations engaged in interstate commerce or doing an interstate business.

Legislation May Be Abused.

There are good people who are afraid of each type of legislation; and much the same kind of argument that is now advanced against the effort to regulate big corporations has been and again and again advanced against the effort to secure proper employers' liability laws or proper factory laws with reference to women and children; much the same kind of argument was advanced but five years ago against the franchise-tax law enacted in this state while I was governor.

Of course there is always the danger of abuse if legislation of this type is approached in a hysterical or sentimental spirit, or, above all, if it is approached in a spirit of envy and hatred toward men of wealth.

We must not try to go too fast, under penalty of finding that we may be going in the wrong direction; and in any event, we ought always to proceed by evolution and not by revolution. The laws must be conceived and executed in a spirit of sanity and justice, and with exact as much regard for the rights of the big man as for the rights of the little man—treating big man and little man exactly alike.

Our ideal must be the effort to combine all proper freedom for individual effort with some guarantee that the effort is not exercised in contravention of the eternal and immutable principles of justice.

LUXURY BREEDS POOR CITIZENS

President, on His Way Home, Tells Volunteer Firemen His Love for Courage.

MAKES MANY TALKS EN ROUTE

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

BINGHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 11.—President Roosevelt on his return trip from Chautauqua to his Oyster Bay home, passed today and tonight through three great states—New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey. At every station where a stop was made he was accorded a greeting as affectionate as it was enthusiastic.

During the afternoon President Roosevelt made brief addresses at Salamanca, Hornellsville, Elmira and Waverly. At Hornellsville the president touched on the yellow fever epidemic.

Every station on the line of the Erie railroad from Hornellsville to this point was thronged with people. At one or two places where the train slowed down, but did not stop, the president waved his hands to the crowds, which broke into cheers as the special passed.

At Elmira, where a convention of volunteer firemen is being held, the president addressed his brief remarks particularly to them. He said in part:

A Word for Firemen.

In our modern industrial life things are sometimes made so easy that the hardier qualities almost tend to atrophy. Therefore it is a fine thing to see men who have taken up a profession which calls for the exercise of every ounce of courage and coolness and prowess a man can have. There are good qualities to develop in a nation, and I am mighty glad to see any of our people who develop them.

There are certain classes of our people, such as firemen, most of those employed on railroads, the light-house and life-saving services, by the very fact of their professions, are called to exercise qualities of which this nation has need should ever it again be called to war. I earnestly hope it never will be called again, and I will make every effort to see that peace obtains; but one first-class way of keeping peace is to make it evident you are not afraid to fight.

I have a great contempt for the brawler, and not merely contempt, but the most active dislike for the man who bullies whoever is weaker, who wrongs the less fortunate. I feel that we should have the same kind of international morality as of individual morality. I should certainly protest as strongly against this nation doing aught that was wrong to any other nation as I should protest against an individual doing such wrong; but let us be strong enough to hold our own.

Track Is Guarded.

When President Roosevelt left Lakewood a pilot locomotive was run ahead of the train over the entire route and another locomotive followed the special at a distance of a few miles to be ready in case of emergency. All track work was suspended along the line 10 minutes before the special was due to arrive at any point where work was in progress, and freight trains going in either direction were stopped to permit the special to pass. Extra patrols were placed on the lines to guard against accidents by washouts.

The train is scheduled to arrive in Jersey City at 1 o'clock a. m. There it will be side-tracked and the president will be afforded an opportunity to get a comfortable rest until morning. At 9:40 tomorrow morning the president is due to arrive at Oyster Bay.

BURGLARS RETURN SPOILS.

Smoke Some Cigars, but Send a Ten Dollar Bill to Make Good the Loss.

NYACK, N. Y., Aug. 11.—(Special.)—Stephen Winant, proprietor of Fort Comfort, a pleasure resort at Piermont, is convinced that burglars some times have consciences. A few weeks ago some body broke into the Fort and stole several boxes of cigars, a lot of candies and some other things of small value.

Today Mr. Winant received, through the Wells Fargo express, most of the boxes of cigars which were stolen, and with them came a $10 bill, to pay for those that were smoked. The money more than pays for the loss and Mr. Winant says he would gladly pay the money to know who the fellow is and to shake him by the hand.

POISON IN SARDINES.

Family Gets Sick After Eating Them and the Cat Dies.

Mrs. Grace Austin, her three children, William, aged 6; Anna, aged 4, and Clara, aged 3, and Mrs. Austin's grandmother, Mrs. Minnie Wandricke, all of Homestead, became ill soon after breakfast yesterday, and it is believed all were poisoned by sardines. William and Anna showed symptoms of poisoning soon after the meal. Two physicians were summoned, but before their arrival the others were afflicted.

The physicians had a couple of busy hours before their patients were relieved. In the meantime the empty sardine box was thrown into the back yard. The family cat licked clean the box and died in a few moments.

McKeesport's Stamp Supply.

A small boy at McKeesport yesterday carried around $15,000 in six small packages done up in heavy wrapping paper and twine. The packages contained the quarterly consignment of postage stamps to the McKeesport postoffice. The stamps will supply the local office for the next three months, unless there should be a remarkable increase in the demand.

Contractor Loses Guarantee.

City Engineer T. W. White of McKeesport has taken an effective manner of compelling contractors to replace streets in as good condition as they did them. Yesterday a local contractor forfeited $25 to the city, the money having been posted to guarantee replacing the paving. The engineer declared the street was left in bad condition.

DEATH CLAIMS JAMES A. GRIER

Former Postmaster of Allegheny City Passes Away After an Extended Illness.

ONCE COUNTY CONTROLLER

James Aiken Grier, former postmaster of Allegheny, died at 5 o'clock last evening at the Western Pennsylvania Asylum for the Insane at Dixmont, where he had been confined since the first of this year. Death was due to nervous collapse. Mr. Grier was county controller from 1890 to 1896 and was twice appointed postmaster of Allegheny.

He was born in the Fourth ward, Allegheny, in October, 1851, the son of the late James Grier, who for many years was one of the wholesale grocery firm of Grier & Aiken. He was educated in the Third and Fourth ward public schools and for a few years engaged in his father's business. Later he conducted a men's furnishing store in Penn avenue and left this to go into the coal business with his brother, the late Samuel C. Grier, in Allegheny. For almost 10 years he was a clerk in the county treasurer's office, and was promoted to the cashiership there. In 1890 he was elected county controller and was re-elected three years later.

Through his brother Samuel, the former delinquent tax colector of Allegheny, the deceased formed some very influential political alliances that resulted in his appointment to the postmastership of Allegheny in July, 1898, by President McKinley. William A. Stone was at that time representing the Allegheny district in congress and advised the appointment. Congressman Graham held office at the time of Mr. Grier's second appointment. He succeeded Isaac R. Stayton, a Cleveland appointee.

Shortly after his second appointment in 1902 Mr. Grier began to show evidences of his illness. He demanded the resignation of Charles A. Smiley, then assistant postmaster, and the latter refused to leave. No friction resulted and at the advice of his brother Mr. Grier went to a sanitarium for a short time. His health from that time was never good and the sudden and unexpected death of his brother, Samuel C., augmented the disease. Although it is two years since his brother died, Mr. Grier brooded continually over it and often spoke of this incident in his life as having been the saddest he had experienced.

On December 26 last Mr. Grier was granted a 30-day leave of absence from office by the postoffice department at Washington, and immediately thereafter was taken to Dixmont. Against the wishes of his wife and family physician he had continued to hold the office of postmaster for more than two years after he was unfitted for any duty, and when he finally did go away all hope of his recovery was gone. Since being taken to Dixmont he had slowly become worse and weakened from week to week until his death.

He married Miss Adelaide Paulson, daughter of the late Charles Paulson, and sister of Frank G. Paulson, the Wood street hatter. For some time Mrs. Grier had been at Victoria Park, Chautauqua, with her sister, Mrs. Henry W. Bickel. She arrived home yesterday and was at her husband's bedside when death ensued. Mr. Grier was a member of the North Presbyterian church of Allegheny. He is survived by his widow and a brother, Robert Grier, of this city.

TAKES CARBOLIC ACID AND DIES WITHIN HOUR

Johnston Is Found Suffering in Room—Negro Is Suspected of Killing Child.

John F. Johnston, aged 26, of Muizig, Pa., died last night at the Allegheny General hospital, one hour after he had swallowed two ounces of carbolic acid. The man rented a room yesterday morning of Mrs. Clara Myers, 819 South avenue, Allegheny, saying he was Henry Walker of Steubenville, O. He went out yesterday afternoon and returned for supper. He went to his room and shortly after 8 o'clock Mrs. Myers heard groans and went to the man's room. Dr. M. E. Stover was called and sent him to the hospital. In his pocket was found a card showing he was a member of Allegheny Council, 112, Jr. O. U. A. M. The body was taken to the morgue.

Richard Harris, aged 50, a negro, was placed under arrest yesterday after a physician, acting in conjunction with the coroner, had stated that a child which Harris had buried a short time before had probably died from violence. The mother of the child is Maud Herman, a white woman, and Harris' supposed wife. She is in the county home at Woodville in such condition that her death is probable.

The child was born yesterday at the couple's home near Carnegie. An hour later Harris was seen by neighbors burying it. They notified County Detective McMillen, who communicated with the coroner. The latter had the body exhumed and examined by a physician, who gave it as his opinion the baby had been killed.

The inquest was held yesterday into the death of David McCann, who died 10 days ago at the Homeopathic hospital from a blow struck by Harry Powell, as Hazel Kirke, July 29. The jury rendered a verdict that Powell be held to await the action of the Washington county grand jury. The men were fighting and McCann was struck with a pick handle.

Michael McGusich, a Polish laborer of 1836 Warner street, Allegheny, died at the St. John's hospital yesterday from injuries received by falling out of the fourth story window at his home early yesterday morning.

Harry Bitner, aged 5, of Gable street, South Side, fell dead in the kitchen at his home yesterday morning. He fell about four weeks ago and injured his head. That accident is thought to have caused his death.

VICTIM OF DROWNING WAS ABOUT TO WED

CONNELLSVILLE, Aug. 11.—(Special.)—A sad feature in connection with the drowning of James W. Myers, whose body was recovered from the Youghiogheny river last evening, is the fact that he was to have married Miss Hattie McLaughlin of Outcrop, Pa., Thursday, August 17. This was learned from letters taken from his pocket. His mother, Mrs. Emma C. Myers of Brushton, W. Va., read of his death in the Pittsburgh papers and came here for his body.

Warren Postoffice Robbed.

WARREN, PA., Aug. 11.—Safe crackers last night entered the postoffice at Sheffield, a small town 12 miles from Warren, and robbed the safe. The postoffice is in the heart of the town in the large store building of the C. H. Smith Company, which is constantly patrolled by a watchman. The work was evidently done about 2 o'clock, as at that hour a terrific explosion shook the town. About $300 in money and stamps was secured.

TEXAS MOB BURNS A NEGRO TO DEATH

Mulatto Pays Horrible Penalty for an Offense Committed Against White Girl.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

SULPHUR SPRINGS, TEXAS, Aug. 11.—Thomas Williams, a mulatto, made an attempt to assault a young white girl, near this town about 6 o'clock this morning. Three hours later he was a blazing mass in the public square at Sulphur Springs. There was no excitement, and the lynching was participated in by several hundred people. In less than four hours after the assault the tragedy had ended and the town had returned to its accustomed vocations and the incident was over.

Officers and a posse caught the negro about a mile and a half east of town. He was taken at once to the scene of the attempted assault and was fully identified by his intended victim. A mob gathered at the public square and soon the materials with which the punishment of the negro was effected were provided.

From his head to his heels the negro was saturated with oil. A match was applied to the feet and a blaze shot high into the air. The mob stood by and watched the flames devour the victim. The fire was kept going for a while, but it soon burned itself out and the body was cut down. More oil was poured on it and the blaze started afresh and the body was almost entirely incinerated. Then the mob dispersed.

Lake, St. Louis, third vice president; Rev. J. J. Curran, Wilkesbarre, treasurer; J. Washington Logue, Philadelphia, secretary. The convention adjourned sine die this afternoon to meet next year at Providence, R. I.

Refuse to Pay the Coroner's Fees.

NEW CASTLE, PA., Aug. 11.—(Special.)—The county commissioners today refused to pay the inquest and autopsy fees incurred by Coroner J. R. Cox in investigating the death of George W. Shaw, a newspaper man of this city, who died suddenly two weeks ago from heart disease. The county commissioners say they will fight the case through the courts if the coroner insists upon payment, and declare too many inquests are being held.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Secretary Bonaparte has authorized the use of his name as a member of the advisory board of the Bennington Memorial association of San Diego, Cal., which proposes to erect a modern sailors' clubhouse at San Diego, as a memorial to those who lost their lives by the explosion on the Bennington.

The Death Roll

Captain Thomas McConnell.

NEW CASTLE, PA., Aug. 11.—Capt. Thomas McConnell, ex-sheriff of Lawrence county, and a veteran of two wars, who died here this morning, will be buried Sunday afternoon with military honors. He was born August 12, 1822. A wound received at the battle of Mechanicsville in 1862 gave him much trouble. The death last August of his son, the Hon. Malcolm McConnell, following the close of a political campaign for the Lawrence county judicial nomination, hastened the father's death. During the Mexican war he enlisted in the volunteer cavalry, and in the civil war he enlisted in the Tenth Pennsylvania reserves. He was commissioned captain of Company B, and his regiment was placed in the United States regulars as the Thirty-ninth regiment. He served until discharged because of his wound late in 1862. He married, in 1846, Miss Jane McComb, who died nine years ago. He was the father of seven children, of whom three survive—Mrs. George W. Hartman and Miss Anethusa McConnell of this city and James McConnell of McConnells Mills. For the greater part of his life Mr. McConnell owned a flour mill on the Slippery Rock. From 1864 to 1867 he served as sheriff of this county, and was a lifelong Republican. He was one of the oldest members of the First United Presbyterian church of this city.

The Rev. Dr. David Lytle Thoburn, brother of the Rev. Dr. James M. Thoburn, Jr., pastor of the Calvary Methodist Episcopal church, Allegheny, and nephew of the Rev. J. M. Thoburn, member of the board of bishops of the Methodist Episcopal church, died last Sunday from cholera, at Lucknow, India. A cablegram received by Dr. Thoburn of Allegheny, at Chautauqua, N. Y., announced his death, and word was sent to his friends in Allegheny. The dead man had but recently returned to his work at Lucknow from a vacation of several months. He had been in India for 17 years and was connected with the Methodist Episcopal publishing house at Lucknow. Dr. Thoburn was a member of one of the best known Methodist Episcopal families, several other members of the family besides Bishop Thoburn and Dr. Thoburn of Allegheny, having entered the ministry. He was graduated from Allegheny college, Meadville, in 1885. He leaves a daughter, Miss Mary Thoburn, a student at the Ohio Wesleyan university, Delaware, O., and other relatives at Cincinnati.

The deceased was taken suddenly ill in this city while attending to his duties as sales agent for the Carnegie Steel Company during last week. His condition was not considered serious and on Thursday his two sons who had been called to the hospital were permitted to return to Lorette where they have been summering, as it was expected Mr. Wagner would be able to leave the hospital in a few days. He suffered a relapse early yesterday morning and died a few minutes before 11 o'clock. Mr. Wagner was a son of Charles and Elizabeth Wagner, pioneer settlers of Monroe county, Pennsylvania. Mr. Wagner married Ellen Dinkey at Weatherly, Pa., in 1876, and moved to Braddock in 1879. PIRATES. TAKE A TWELVE-INNING GAME FROM THE QUAKERS

WAGNER SCORES THE ONLY RUN

It Came in Twelfth Inning and Brought Victory—Sparks Pitches Brilliant Ball.

BEST GAME OF THE SEASON

Between rain storms yesterday afternoon the Pirates and Quakers put up one of the most stubborn as well as the prettiest games of the season. The contest went 12 innings, and the Pirates just managed to nose out a 1-to-0 victory. It was well for Clarke's crew that Wagner managed to get across the home plate in the twelfth for if the game had lasted but a minute longer Umpire Hank O'Day was ready to call it a draw.

The storm which came up just before game time kept the crowd down to 1,499, and those who did venture over to the park were not certain of a game until 3:30 had arrived. At that time the clouds had dispersed and there was an occasional glimpse of sunshine, but the playing field was so slippery that the teams took but little preliminary practice. As the players on both teams were not anxious for a double-header today it was decided to go ahead yesterday and take a chance.

The pitchers for the afternoon were Phillippe for the Pirates and Sparks, an ex-Pirate, for the Quakers. It has always been contended that Sparks was a big light to go over nine innings, and had those who sprung such a statement been on hand they would have had good reason to change that opinion. Sparks not only pitched nine innings in fine style, but he went the twelve innings with but three hits scored against him, and had it not been for errors by Courtney and Abbott there would not have been a run scored. Sparks certainly pitched a most brilliant ball and he richly deserved a victory for his clever work.

Deacon Phillippe was also there with a brilliant line of work, and while the visitors managed to get more safe hits than were made off Sparks, yet these hits availed naught, for it was when there were runners on the bases that Phillippe was strongest. This was true of the eighth inning when the Quakers had runners on second and third bases with but one out, and yet did not get a score. In this inning the Deacon wisely passed Abbott, who is something of a hitter, to first on balls, and then struck Sparks out. This was a display of good judgment.

The fielding on both sides was very fast and at times sensational. Roy Thomas of the Quakers started the clever work in the first inning when he made a long running catch which robbed Clarke of a sure three-base hit. "Oom Paul" Kruger, formerly a Pirate, was at short for the visitors, and his clever work was one of the features of the game. "Kitty" Bransfield, also a former Pirate, made a catch off Howard's bat in the tenth which robbed that player of a hit. The Pirates all did their full duty and many an attempt at a base hit was nipped by the infielders.

Up until the twelfth inning the Pirates had secured but two hits off Sparks, and not a runner had passed second base; in fact but two runners had reached the second station. When the Pirates' half of the twelfth was reached darkness was coming on and Umpire O'Day had served notice that if a run was not scored in that inning he would call the game. Clarke and Leach, who were the first Pirate batsmen in the twelfth, were easily retired, and it was up to Wagner to do something. Hans drove a hot one down at Courtney, which the latter fumbled, allowing Wagner to reach first. Hans at once proceeded to steal second, and on a wild throw by Abbott he went to third. At this important stage Howard laced the ball to left for a single and Wagner romped home with the run that won the game. The score:

FIELD DAY AT SOUTH SIDE VACATION SCHOOL

One of the Physical Culture Classes Giving An Exhibition.

Boys' Race.—Waiting for the Word.

SOUTH SIDE'S FIELD DAY FOR VACATION SCHOOLS

Four Thousand on Ground, Half of Them Grown-Ups—Races for Boys and Girls, Prizes Balls and Dolls.

The fifth annual field day of the South Side vacation schools yesterday was the most successful day of them all. Four thousand persons were on the grounds at one time, 2,000 being children, and the others grown-ups, parents of the youngsters and visitors interested in the vacation schools.

William McGarey, member of the central board of education, was on the grounds, which are alongside the high school all afternoon, and when he saw the general interest displayed he shook hands with himself and others over the fact that he had always been in favor of buying the plot of ground on which the field day was held. The South Side members of the board had for years been in favor of buying the site, which gives the high school a whole block of grounds bounded by three streets and an alley, but it was with great trouble that they finally induced the central board to appropriate the money to buy the land.

Mrs. Samuel S. Miller, chairman of the South Side summer vacation schools, was on the grounds all the afternoon. With much pride she showed visitors the new gymnasium, containing apparatus and shower baths, the latter being used not only by the children during the day but by South Side workmen after 6 p. m. every day in summer and on Saturday morning during the summer.

The instruction at the summer schools is school instruction and play, and the field day was to show the proficiency of the children in the athletics, which they had practiced outside of school hours. Roy Winters, aged 13, won the high jump. Thomas Mead the first and George Hirth the first and second prizes respectively, in the Indian club race; Thomas Mead and F. Myers were the team that won the fore and aft race.

These boys ranged in age from 8 to 13, but the smaller children had their innings, too. There were 29 events in the races for girls, and the last event was participated in by nine little ones between 4 and 6; the younger boys had 37 events, each event being run by from four to a dozen participants. The prizes for the boys were balls and bats and for girls dolls of all sizes and kinds.

The dumb-bell and flag drills, the Virginia reel and tillie-ma-crankie games were very pretty to look at, and the youngsters kept good time to the music, furnished by a brass band. The sack race, run by boys, sent the 2,000 children into peals of laughter.

Mr. McGarey cheered the contestants as liberally as any child spectator did. He and Former Detective Richard Kelly, Dr. H. L. Reiricke and Henry Klinzing were the judges of the contests. John Lewis and August Kreil were the starters, Kreil being armed with a big megaphone.

CLUBS

Addition to Deaconess Home.

The Women's Home Missionary society of the Pittsburgh conference will meet the second Monday in September and decide whether to undertake the erection of an addition to the Methodist Episcopal Deaconess home at Fifth avenue and Jumonville street this fall. It is quite likely, however, that work on the $10,000 addition will not be commenced until spring, as the women are anxious to secure almost the entire amount needed before commencing the work of building.

Plans, however, have been prepared and the addition will occupy a portion of the lot in the rear of the present home, the ground plot being 25 feet wide by 50 feet deep. The building will be three stories in height, the basement on a level with the side street. It will be of red brick to conform with the general appearance of the home occupying the Fifth avenue frontage. The addition will enable the managers to take up new features of work. Two rooms on the first floor will be large, and opening into one another will give an assembly room, capable of division into smaller apartments. This will permit the holding of mothers' meetings in the home. There will be eight or ten single bedrooms, allowing that much increase in the number of deaconesses in the home. At present there are 12, all of them resident in the Deaconess' home, though two are now at Leetsdale at the Fresh Air home supported by the different Epworth leagues in Allegheny. The Fresh Air home has been conducted five summers, and a party of 30 children is usually making a two weeks' visit there throughout the summer season. On Monday 30 children from the First ward, Allegheny, will be taken down to the home.

Two bedrooms and a bath will be provided in the addition to the Deaconess' home for the accommodation of strangers who have been helped at the different railway stations by the deaconesses who have charge of the railway station work, which is designated as travelers' aid. There is no place at present where young girls entering the city alone and not met by friends can be taken by the deaconesses save to the Rescue home. The new accommodations in the Deaconess' home will meet a very urgent need.

The travelers' aid is an important feature of the work which the deaconesses do. The one assigned to the depots helps women traveling with children to board their train, directs strangers, and where a young girl or woman arrives in the city or passes through after a wait of a few hours and has no money, the deaconess is able, through the courtesy of the superintendents of the depot restaurants, to order a meal for the traveler without charge. The expenses of keeping up the deaconess' home amount to between $3,000 and $4,000 a year. The deaconesses themselves receive the small salary of $8 a month in addition to the home and traveling expenses. Miss Margaret Boswell has been the superintendent of the home in Fifth avenue and Jumonville street for four years.

Flower Committee Completes Work.

The flower committee of the Pittsburgh summer playgrounds and vacation schools yesterday completed its work for this season. The distribution of bouquets to the children in the playgrounds yesterday amounted to 4,050, of which 3,500 were arranged by the flower committee. Additional 500 bouquets were received too late to be sent to the playgrounds, and they were carried by Mrs. Minnie Ourey Roberts, Miss May Vandergrift and Mrs. John Wallace to the women's and children's wards in the Homeopathic hospital.

The playground distribution resulted in 400 sent to the Ralston school; 800, Andrews school 375 of which were supplied by friends of the school; 350, Washington park; 175, Greenfield school; 255, Moorhead; 140, Riverside; 1,200, South Side Recreation park; 250, South school. Personal friends sent the flowers to the O'Hara school, 450 bunches, and the Wickersham, 250. An idea of the enormous work of the committee in arranging the flowers into bouquets is gained from the record of those sent to the South Side Recreation park, the largest playground, the record for the five playground weeks being 1,200, 1,000, 750, 750 and 500, making a total sent to that playground this summer of 4,600 bouquets.

Mrs. Minnie Ourey Roberts, the chairman of the flower committee, was assisted yesterday morning by the following members: Mrs. John Anderson, Mrs. A. J. Satler, Mrs. Z. Bailey Ogden, Miss Gertrude Guffey, Miss Martha Biggert, Miss Elizabeth Eaton, Miss Lillian Brown, Mrs. George B. Moore, Mrs. Samuel A. Ammon, Miss Beulah Kennard, Mrs. Will McKenna, Miss Bessie Johnston, Mrs. William Zahn, Mrs. J. I. Wallace, Mrs. Samuel Winner, Miss Mazie Vandergrift and Miss Florence Phillis.

The contributors were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pitcairn, who each week have sent a great number of flowers; Alexander R. Peacock, Mrs. Alexander King, Mrs. Daniel M. Clemson, Mrs. John Anderson, Mrs. John L. Kirk, Mrs. J. V. Stratton, Mrs. W. E. Lincoln, Mrs. Phillis, Mrs. Anthony W. Smith, Jr., Mrs. Charles Zug, Mrs. S. A. Ammon, Mrs. E. H. Utley, Mrs. E. A. Williams, Randolph & McClements; Hazelwood, contributing through Miss May Vandergrift; Sheridan, through Mrs. William Sheridan Boestoce and Mrs. Herman Haupt; Crafton, through Mrs. John Wallace and Mrs. William Zahn; the Christian Endeavor society of the First Presbyterian church of Carnegie, through Miss Odessa Sweitzer; residents of West Pittsburgh, the Obey district of Chartiers township and the West End.

SOCIETY

NUMBERED among the coming season's most interesting events is the wedding of Miss Mary Caldwell Mellon and Herman Kampmann of San Antonio, Tex., which will take place during the early part of November. Miss Mellon and her brother, Edward P. Mellon, have just returned from an automobile tour along the north shore and are once more at their Bayard street home. The engagement of Miss Mellon and Mr. Kampmann was announced during the spring at a smartly appointed little tea given by Mrs. Thomas Alexander Mellon, a sister-in-law of the bride-elect. No place has yet been selected as the scene of the coming wedding, nor have the exact date and hour been decided upon. Whether the event will be a brilliant or quiet one is another question still to be settled, although it can in any event scarcely be called quiet, as the Mellon connection is one of the largest in this city. Miss Mellon is a granddaughter of Judge Thomas Mellon. She met her fiance while visiting his sister at the Kampmann home in San Antonio, in which city the young couple will live at the conclusion of a wedding trip.

College Set Is Entertained.

All the younger members of Oakmont society were guests last evening at the dance given by Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Armstrong for their daughter, Miss Ruth Armstrong. Miss Armstrong was the principal guest of honor, but receiving with her and the host and hostess were their two sons, Howard Armstrong, a Princeton graduate, and William M. Armstrong, a junior at the same college. The dance was given in the Oakmont Boat club, where the rooms were brightened by clusters of flowers. The chandeliers were hung with asparagus plumosa. Among the guests were James Grimes, David Rankin, Robert Brokaw and Thomas Pears, all Princeton men from the East End.

Local Tourists at Ohio Pyle.

A number of local people are spending the summer at Ohio Pyle, and among those at present stopping at the Rose and Patenalle cottages on the Morris farm are Richard F. Neill and Miss J. B. Neill of the East End; Mrs. J. H. Nicholson, Miss Clara and Miss Sadie Nicholson of Shadyside; Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Patenalle and family of Wilkinsburg; Mrs. T. P. Courtney, Miss Helen and Miss Margaret Courtney of Oakland; Joseph Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Patterson, Mrs. John Adams, Miss Grave and Master John Adams and Prof. Link, all of this city; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sutton, Jack and Allan Sutton, of Wilkinsburg.

Pittsburgh House Party at Conneaut.

Mr. and Mrs. Porter Sawyer Klee of North Euclid avenue are entertaining a house party of Pittsburgh people at their cottage on Conneaut lake. Mr. and Mrs. Klee have been at the lake all summer, during which time they have been host and hostess of numerous house parties, among their guests having been Dr. and Mrs. A. V. Chessrown, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Jack, Mr. Jack's mother, his sister, Miss Jack, and Miss Edna L. Kahle, all of this city. The Klees will not return to Pittsburgh until September.

Mr. and Mrs. Phelan Are Home.

Mr. and Mrs. William D. Phelan returned a few days ago from their wedding trip and are now established in their own home in Dennison avenue, East End. Mrs. Phelan, it will be remembered, was Miss Florence E. Lanahan, whose wedding was a very quiet little event of early July. The wedding trip was made to eastern watering places, through the White mountains and up into Maine.

Notes of Prominent People.

Mr. and Mrs. William Larimer Mellon of Forbes street, and their children have joined the Pittsburgh colony at Spring Lake, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Alexander Mellon and their children are visiting friends in the west. Their home in Fifth avenue is closed during their absence.

Mr. and Mrs. James R. Mellon are taking a trip through Canada and the eastern states. They left Pittsburgh on Monday.

Will Celebrate Tin Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Shafer of Federal street, Allegheny, have about 100 invitations out for the dance which they will give next Monday evening in celebration of the tenth anniversary of their marriage. The hours are from 8 until 1 o'clock. Prior to her marriage in Louisville, Ky., 10 years ago, Mrs. Shafer was Miss Sarah Grimes. Guests will be present from all the surrounding small towns, but none from a distance are expected.

People Coming and Going.

Mrs. C. V. Linnekin of Perrysville avenue, Allegheny, and her daughter, Miss Carrie Rachel Linnekin, left on Thursday morning for Chautauqua lake.

Mrs. M. E. Manning of Frankstown avenue, East End, is the guest of Mrs. W. B. Ken of North Tonawanda, N. Y.

Joseph W. Marsh, accompanied by his daughter, Miss Rose Guthrie Marsh, and his son, James B. Ingraham Marsh, is making a tour of California this summer. The party of three will visit the Portland exposition before returning.

Miss Florence Ivory and Miss Sue Wehn of the East End are making a week-end visit with Miss Ella Shuster of Beaver Falls. They will witness the golf match today between the Beaver Valley County club and the Brighton Country club on the links at Beaver Falls.

Picnic of Flower Committee.

At the suggestion of Mrs. George B. Moore the members of the flower committee for the Pittsburgh summer playgrounds and vacation schools are urged to attend a meeting to be held in Horne's parlors next Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. Arrangements will then be made for a picnic of the committee in Kennywood park soon. Miss Gertrude Guffey was made chairman of the arrangements at the weekly meeting of the committee yesterday morning in the gymnasium of the Central Young Women's Christian association. The picnic was suggested as an opportunity for the members of the committee who have worked at different times during the playgrounds season to become better acquainted with each other in anticipation of the work the committee will take up next year.

Exhibitions of Summer School Work.

Though flower day was observed in all the playgrounds and vacation schools in Pittsburgh yesterday morning, special exhibitions of the school work were shown only in the O'Hara and Andrews schools, when visitors gathered between 10 and 12 o'clock. In the afternoon the South and the Greenfield schools held their annual exhibitions. This morning between 10 and 12 the children in the Denny and the Lawrenceville parks, the two new recreation parks opened this summer, will show the results of their work during the last five weeks. These two parks, as well as the Washington park, will remain open until the first of September.

Negro Highwayman Meets Surprise.

While driving to his home in Oakmont early yesterday morning after a collecting trip, Jerry McCarthy, agent for a brewing company, was held up by a negro on the bridge between Oakmont and Verona. McCarthy had $175 in cash besides checks. Before the highwayman realized what was happening McCarthy had dealt him a terrific blow with the butt of his whip and then applied the lash to the horse, leaving the negro behind.

Makes a Wonderful Photograph.

One of the most remarkable photographs ever seen in the city is the big panoramic view of the great baseball game last Saturday between New York and Pittsburgh. The photograph shows the entire crowd of 18,000 people and is as clear as a crystal. The print is 60 inches long and is made from one negative. The picture is reproduced as a supplement to this week's issue of the Index. Pittsburgh's great illustrated weekly. Be sure and get a copy as only a limited number have been printed. On sale at all news stands Saturday morning. Price only 5 cents.

STOCK MARKET ACTIVE, BUT CLOSED IRREGULAR

Strength of the High Grade Railroad Issues the Feature of the Dealings—Electric Rallied on the Local Board.

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

The sales on the New York stock exchange yesterday fell slightly below the million-share mark. The market was excited and broader than for a long time past. The strength of some of the high-grade railroad stocks was a feature of the dealings, but toward the close the market became irregular and finally closed below the best. The average, however, was the highest of the year.

At the opening the market was rather "spotty," but the manipulation was adroit enough to give the appearance of public buying, based upon the government crop report. Thus the stocks of roads traversing the spring wheat territory were the strongest. Northwest advanced sharply to 224½, the highest on this movement. Northern Pacific rose rapidly to 213¾, St. Paul reached 186, Canadian Pacific touched 180, and Great Northern preferred, which opened higher at 295, was carried up to 309 and closed with a net gain of 14¾ points. All these stocks will be benefited if the promise for the spring wheat crop contained in the government report is realized. It may be doubted, however, if the general public is buying these stocks for a permanent investment at this high range of values.

The grangers traversing the corn belt were also more active, but advanced leisurely. Atchison, Rock Island and Missouri Pacific closed with net gains of ⅛ to ¾ per cent, and Union Pacific, after advancing to 138⅝, closed at 137⅞, a net gain of ⅞ per cent.

The eastern group of stocks that depend upon industrial activity for prosperity, were rather tardy in joining the upward movement, but later they became very strong. New York Central was the most conspicuous in this movement and advanced to 155, reacting slightly and closing at a net gain of 1⅞ per cent. Delaware & Hudson did not duplicate its record price of Thursday and after fluctuating between 117½ and 120, broke to 114⅞ at the close, a loss of 5⅛ per cent for the day. Lackawanna made a new high record at 470, but Jersey Central did not improve upon its previous record. Pennsylvania finally wheeled into line and advanced to 145. At the top price one trader took a single block of 10,000 shares, and there was some expectation that this and the previous buying would absorb the stock that has been hanging over the market and permit of a little skyrocketing; but the stock closed only ⅝ higher for the day. Baltimore & Ohio crossed 116 and closed ½ higher. Reading closed only ⅛ higher. The lower-priced Gould issues were moderately active for the first time in weeks and closed slightly higher.

The industrial list was rather slow in joining the bull movement, but later under the leadership of U. S. Steel they became active and thus contributed to the broadening market. U. S. Steel common reached 36¾ and closed practically at the top. The preferred advanced to 104¾, which, taking into account the dividend which came off this week, is equivalent to 106¾, the highest ever quoted. The sinking fund bonds, however, closed ⅝ per cent lower. Amalgamated Copper rallied to 85, but did not retain its gain and closed only ¼ per cent higher. Smelting common, after advancing to 150⅝, lost the entire gain and closed unchanged for the day. North American closed 3 per cent higher and Sugar ¾ higher. Despite the reaction which occurred late in the session, the general market closed fairly firm.

Call loan rates remained unchanged at 1¾ to 2 per cent. The indications are that today's bank statement will be unfavorable.

Half the dealings in the local stock market consisted of mining shares. Tonopah Extension sold to the extent of 5,575 shares at 5.75 to 86, which is within a small fraction of the record price of last January. The advance is based upon favorable developments at the mine and upon expectations that the forthcoming dividend will be double the initial dividend paid last month. Ohio Tonopah remained unchanged, while Luster closed ½ higher. The leader of the regular industrial list was Westinghouse Electric, which advanced to and closed at 85¼. There were no transactions in either Air Brake or Union Switch & Signal. National Fire Proofing issues also relapsed into dullness, but remained steady. Ohio Fuel Supply declined to 42, and Manufacturers Light & Heat was unchanged at 57⅝. The Brewing issues were very dull but steady. Crucible Steel preferred rallied to and closed at 65⅝, but the common stock closed a shade lower at 12½. U. S. Steel issues were moderately active, but merely followed the course of the eastern market. There were no transactions in bonds, but prices were steady to firm.

FEATURES OF THE DAY

IN PITTSBURGH	IN WALL STREET
Westinghouse Electric strong and higher, closing at 85¼.	Stock market was active, excited and higher.
Tonopah Extension very active and advanced to $6.	Sales included 1,033,000 shares stock and $2,315,000 bonds.
Crucible Steel preferred advanced to and closed at 65⅝.	High-grade railroad issues led the advance.
Brewing stocks and bonds extremely dull, but closed steady.	U. S. Steel stocks closed with good net gains.
No transactions in either Pittsburgh or River Coal issues.	Amalgamated Copper and Smelting made little headway.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

There was little or no increase in the trading for Pittsburgh account in the New York market yesterday, according to the reports of commission brokers. A member of one of the largest houses said their customers were taking profits where they had them, and were in some instances following the market up with stop orders, but there was little or no new buying. "In fact, I am afraid to encourage buying on a movement like that we have been having the past few days. Anyone with any experience knows that there is nothing legitimate in jumps of 5 to 25 points in high-grade railroad stocks, and if this movement is not followed by a good break, then I miss my guess." The member of another Pittsburgh house which holds a seat on the New York exchange, and whose business is more of an investment than a purely speculative character, said: "The fireworks of the past few days have scared our customers away from the market. They are simply doing nothing. They would probably come in as buyers on a break of 4 or 5 points, but they will not touch stocks under present conditions." A third broker, commenting upon the situation, said: "It is just the kind of a market to attract the bolder element among speculators, and if the powers that be can hold prices at the present level for a little while, and then let the market down a point or two, you will see the public scrambling in. However, I regard it as a dangerous market to buy, and yet it looks like going higher."

Not much attention was paid by Wall street to the constant rumors of transfer and combination of control which were set afloat as nominal explanation for many of the advances. The stocks affected were so varied and so totally disconnected on any possible grounds of comparison that the rumors concerning them, so far as they sought to associate them in any way were given little credence. These feverish movements were still suspected to be of manipulative origin. But the difficulty of operating in such mercurial securities on any ordinary marginal transaction and the enormous resources required for their actual taking up in such volume as the transactions of yesterday and the day before represent, added to the mystery of the movement.

For the first day in many weeks there was not a single transaction in any of the local coal stocks yesterday, either in Pittsburgh or New York. Pittsburgh Coal common was not even quoted here, and there were only nominal quotations of 53 bid, 54 asked, on the preferred. River Coal preferred was offered at 26½, but there was no bid, and the common was not even mentioned.

National Fireproofing, the Brewing and the natural gas issues were all extremely dull, with not enough change in prices to invite buying or selling for a turn. There was also a subsidence of activity in Crucible Steel, although the preferred closed fractionally higher.

Sproul & Co. figured largely on the buying side of the local market yesterday. Morris, Brown & Co. and Lawrence & Co. were large sellers of Tonopah Extension on the advance, and McMullin & Co. and Robert C. Hall were buyers.

For the first time this week Westinghouse Electric displayed some activity, sales on the local board exceeding 1,000 shares, and the price advancing 1¼ points. There were no sales of Switch and Signal or Airbrake.

American Sewer Pipe closed a fraction lower, at 36½. The Harbison-Walker stocks were not mentioned all day.

Gross earnings of Wabash for the first week in August increased $308.

A curb sale of North Butte was reported at 25½, but the stock closed offered at that price. Golden Anchor sold at 90 cents. United Copper was neglected all day.

United States Glass directors have declared the usual dividend of 1 per cent, payable September 15.

The announcement of the plan for converting $1,200,000 of the Second National bank surplus into capital stock had no effect upon the market, the stock being nominally quoted at 710 bid, 740 asked.

A New York dispatch stated that Great Northern had leased its fleet on lands to the United States Steel Corporation. A similar report last week was denied by United States Steel officials.

There was no movement in the New York bond market yesterday to correspond with that in stocks. The only active issues were Japanese 4½s, which were firmer, and United States Steel 5s, which closed slightly lower.

Closing New York prices showed new high records, both for a few individual securities and for the general list of prices. The average price of the railroad stocks at the close was 2 per cent above the top figures of the boom of 1902. The largest advances in yesterday's market were secured in the Hill stocks, Canadian Pacific and St. Paul.

The annual report of the Canadian General Electric Company shows profits on operation of $582,529, an increase of $70,309; surplus, $1,144, as compared with $168,189 the previous year.

Gross earnings for the Illinois Central for July decreased $97,656.

The annual statement of the National Enameling and Stamping Company shows profits of $917,227, a decrease of $132,377.

From the date of organization, in 1901, to December, 1903, the United States Steel Corporation paid its common stockholders 8¼ per cent, or $49,562,640. It has just paid the seventeenth quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent on the preferred stock, which has now received 29¾ per cent, or $138,118,622. This makes a total disbursement to stockholders in dividends since incorporation of $171,681,262.

The London Financial Times recommends Wabash-Pittsburg Terminal bonds to the attention of investors, because the company will derive benefits from three contracts: (1) With the Carnegie Steel Company giving to the Wabash-Pittsburgh Terminal Company one-fourth of all the Carnegie company's traffic destined to or coming from points east of Buffalo and Pittsburgh. (2) With the Wheeling & Lake Erie, pledging 25 per cent of gross earnings derived east of Chicago and St. Louis traffic interchange with the Terminal company. (3) A contract with the Pittsburgh Coal Company, which secures the transportation of 4,000,000 tons of coal annually.

Foreign markets were watched with attention for any indications of the probable outcome of the peace conference at Portsmouth. The stock markets abroad manifested no uneasiness, but the sharp advance in sterling exchange at Paris was indicative of a purpose to accumulate further reserves there. Discount rates hardened in London in response, and the foreign exchange rate advanced in New York. The money market was totally unaffected. This in spite of the very considerable demand for funds involved in the more active speculation in the stock market, especially in the transactions in the very high-priced stocks. The estimates of the currency movement for the week were also significant as showing for the first time this season that the banks have lost cash to the interior on the balance of the movement. The amount seems to be small, and even added to the week's absorption by sub-treasury operations, the effect on the bank reserves to be shown in today's weekly statement is not expected to be large.

TEMPORARY FACTORS ARE RESTRAINING BUSINESS

Among the Adverse Influences Are Strikes and Yellow Fever—Crops Are in Good Shape.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade tomorrow will say:

Trade reports are less uniformly favorable, but adverse factors are of a temporary nature, and the net results for the week is satisfactory. Numerous strikes have occurred, causing the customary partisan influence over business, and the epidemic of yellow fever is restricting southern trade. On the other hand, thermal conditions have facilitated retail trade, crop prospects have greatly improved, and out-of-town buyers are numerous in all the leading markets. Manufacturing points are increasingly active, mills still occupying the strongest position, while wholesale lines are not making concessions to get business. Iron furnaces and steel mills make progress, but less rapidly. Lumber mills and dealers are having an exceptionally busy season. Railway earnings in July were 7.4 per cent greater than in the same month last year, and foreign exports at this port for the last week showed an increase of $1,217,03 in imports, while exports decreased $1,903,272. Little change has occurred in the financial situation, rates ruling easy, while prices of securities have risen close to the highest point on record. Bank exchanges at New York for the week were 47.8 per cent larger than last year, and at other leading cities the increase amounted to 34 per cent.

Recovery in the iron and steel industry comes more slowly than was anticipated, yet there are numerous indications of a better tone. Quotations are practically unchanged. Export trade is expanding and several important contracts are pending that will add a large tonnage to the business of the mills when satisfactory terms can be arranged.

Textile markets have had the stimulus of an increasing attendance of western buyers. At present the only event that might weaken the position of cotton manufacturers would be the cancellation of Chinese orders, as many mills have withdrawn from the market on account of export trade. Woolen goods are meeting with steady demand.

Raw materials of the footwear industry continue strong, hides commanding the highest position since the civil war, and showing no indication of reaction. Footwear markets respond to the upward tendency of materials in so far as any changes are recorded, but western shoe jobbers have not yet come to the usual amount of spring orders, owing to disagreement as to values.

Failures this week numbered 222 in the United States, compared with 222 a year ago, and 19 in Canada, against 23 last year.

Bradstreets tomorrow will say:

Wheat, including flour, exports for the week are 3,057,062 bushels, against 1,541,496 bushels last week, 1,351,229 bushels this week last year, 2,413,131 bushels in 1903, and 4,797,903 bushels in 1902. From July 1 to date the exports are 5,228,646 bushels, against 1,946,771 bushels last year, 18,660,441 bushels in 1903, and 25,305,966 bushels in 1902. Corn exports for the week are 1,134,442 bushels, against 1,903,475 bushels last week, 636,222 bushels a year ago, 207,227 bushels in 1903, and 30,427 bushels in 1902. From July 1 to date, the exports of corn are 5,909,894 bushels, against 4,279,128 bushels in 1904, 6,023,490 bushels in 1903, and 557,760 bushels in 1902.

MARKET IS SWAYED BY CROPS AND PEACE

Small Sized Boom Is Created by an Over-Enthusiastic Trading Element.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—The Herald this (Saturday) morning says: Crop news and hopes that peace will result from the Portsmouth conference were used yesterday by an enthusiastic trading element in the stock market to create a small stock boom. Stocks advanced and closed firm, after making substantial gains. The business of making new high records continued, especially in the high priced specialties, but the spectacular movements of the previous day in stocks costing $200 to $300 a share were fewer in number. The greatest shares were whipped up with confident energy, but the movements had all the earmarks, to the experienced observer, of those which in the past have created dangerous conditions. The market was a forced one and unless public interest is greatly enlarged will collapse almost as quickly as it began.

Undoubtedly the report of the August crop conditions, showing the fourth successive large crop of the principal cereals had a very exhilarating effect on the security market. Peace negotiations, as they have been interpreted so far, point to a successful conclusion of the war. The disposition of the Russian troops on learning the terms of their adversaries to treat further, and the favorable view taken of the senior Russian plenipotentiary as a man of peace, contribute to the generally optimistic, or at least hopeful feeling. There is a disposition on the part of the speculative element, however, to become too enthusiastic concerning the general outlook, and evidences of overtrading can already be witnessed.

In the list of new high records made in specialties and standard issues the price of United States Steel preferred established yesterday was unavailable. There was a strong and active market for the speculative issues, and the bonds continued to rule firm.

The harvesting of large crops, it was generally pointed out, would compel the purchasers of steel and iron goods to enlarge their commitments. The railroads to take care of the increased business would thus enjoy the steel market with greater freedom.

PITTSBURGH POSTOFFICE RECEIPTS SHOW BIG GAIN

Increase Is Greater Last Month Than Any of the Ten Largest Cities in the Country.

[By Private Wire to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—(Special.)—In a monthly statement issued by the postoffice department today, Pittsburgh shows a larger increase in its postoffice receipts for the month of July than any of the 10 largest cities of the country. The percentage of increase for Pittsburgh was 17.66, while the nearest approach to this was Cincinnati, which showed an increase of 16.83 per cent.

Philadelphia showed an increase of only 7.54 per cent, while St. Louis, owing to the World's fair of last year, showed a decrease of 14.60 per cent.

For July, 1905, the gross receipts of the Pittsburgh office were $122,806, and for the same month last year, $102,546, an increase of $19,259. The net increase for the 50 larger cities was $224,464, or 7.18 per cent, which shows that Pittsburgh is more than keeping pace with the larger cities of the country. L. W. STRATER.

Former Carnegie Employe Disappears.

John Crosley, aged 50, has been missing from the home of his son, Arthur, 1626 Dresden alley, for nearly a week. He was last seen at 10 o'clock Sunday morning walking along Penn avenue at Thirty-first street, without a coat. Crosley is about 5 feet 7 inches in height and weighs 170 pounds. For many years he worked in the Upper Carnegie mills and was recently pensioned off by the company. Crosley was very well known in Lawrenceville.

OAKMONT PLOT BRINGS $28,000

J. Needs Property at C and Sixth Streets Is Secured for Residence Lots.

PENN AVENUE TRANSACTION

Through the agency of Larue Tiers of Oakmont, the property of J. B. D. Meeds in Oakmont has been sold for about $28,000. The plot is bounded by C and D streets on the north and south and Sixth and Ninth streets on the east and west. It is opposite the Children's home, and is only two squares from the Oakmont station. The plot includes about eight acres, which makes the price about $3,500 an acre. In view of the fact that it has 900 feet frontage in both C and D streets, and a depth of 90 feet, with corresponding frontage on three other streets, which are not opened, the price is considered low. No intimation of who the buyer is could be secured yesterday, but it is said that the purchase was made with a view to plotting the ground and putting it on the market in large lots.

This is the first large sale in Oakmont since the decision of the citizens to bond the town for $45,000 for street improvements. Several good sales of lots have been reported during the week which are thought to have been hastened by the election last Tuesday. Some good building operations are now under way, among them being the $60,000 Episcopal church at C and Fourth streets, for which the contract will be awarded next week by Architect R. Maurice Trimble, and three houses which W. J. Zahniser is building at C and Third streets, at a cost of $6,000 each.

More Buying Out Penn Avenue.

J. H. Armstrong has bought from James Walker Todd the property at 1209 Penn avenue for $22,000. The lot is 16.8x100 feet, on the north side of the avenue, running back to Mulberry alley, and is improved with a two-story brick store building. The price figures at about $1,310 a front foot, which is a fair valuation, judged by the prices paid recently for properties nearby, on which the buildings were not as good.

Through the office of Baldridge, Watson & Co. James B. Graham has bought from James B. Kirker the residence at 435 Ross avenue, Wilkinsburg, for $22,500. The house is a modern brick of 14 rooms and stands on a lot 106x182 feet, near the Pennsylvania railroad. The property is well rented, and was taken for an investment.

Samuel B. Wayman is the buyer of the Hyman Saul holdings at the southeast corner of Wylie avenue and Fulton street, which were sold some time ago for $21,500. The lot is 21x82 feet, and has on it a brick store and dwelling.

May Be a Larger Block.

The block to be erected by the Joseph Woodwell Company at Wood street and Second avenue, mention of which was made last week, may be enlarged to take in 40 feet more frontage, if a deal that was reported yesterday goes through. The Woodwell lot, at the corner, is only 20 feet wide. Adjoining this is the Liggett lot, 40x78 feet, which runs back to an L-shaped lot, 20 feet wide, which is owned by the Woodwell company, and abuts their property in Second avenue. It is said that the Liggetts are considering the proposition to erect an eight-story and warehouse building on their lot to correspond with the Woodwell building, and that the parties are now arranging to improve the entire 60 feet with a uniform structure. The Liggett buildings are old three-story structures, now occupied by stove and range concerns. Such a building as is proposed would add greatly to the appearance and value of that square of property, and would give lower Wood street another substantial impetus in a mercantile way.

The flat fever is rapidly spreading to West Liberty builders, and several structures of this kind are to be erected this fall. The most pretentious building yet announced is that to be erected by William L. Smith, at Seventh and Pennsylvania avenues from plans by Architect Edmund B. Lang. The building will be a handsome three-story structure, covering 60x60 feet, and will cost $50,000.

Fine Building Showing on Lonergan.

Twenty-three houses under way is the record of the new Lonergan allotment to date, and is one that has been equaled by few lot plans which have been on the market no longer. C. A. Potts has contracted for four frame and shingle cottages of seven rooms and bath, each to cost $3,000. A. W. Rudolph has started five six-room frame houses in Curran avenue, which will cost $2,800 each. C. L. and J. C. Shuttleworth will build two seven-room houses in Palm Beach avenue. Mrs. Mary Ward is building three $3,500 houses in Lonergan way. The owners of the Lonergan plan are building four $3,000 houses at Fourth and Ridge avenues. Mrs. Mary Bailey has a good house under roof, and Elmer C. Johnston has his eight-room frame house half completed. Eugene E. Hurd has arranged for a house at Los Angeles and Ridge avenues. Mrs. P. McMahon has a house under roof at Curran and Ridge avenues. J. T. Ferguson will build a house in Ridge avenue. The sewers on the Lonergan plan are completed. Two streets have water connections already, and graphics are being laid in all the main streets. The Banksville Christian church has secured a site, and will shortly begin the erection of a $10,000 church near the center of the plan.

The work of grading the old Roseburg homestead in Lincoln avenue, Bellevue, which was bought a few weeks ago by Joseph Hastings and Lee Clark, has been started. The property includes nearly 15 acres, and is between Thomas avenue and Brighton road. It is the intention of the owners to plot the ground in lots not less than 50 feet wide and to place them on the market this fall.

E. M. West to Build Houses.

Two $8,000 houses will be built by E. M. West as the result of his purchase of 40x130 feet through the firm of Baldridge, Watson & Co. of 40x130 feet on the east side of Sheridan avenue, Nineteenth ward, for $5,000. The lot adjoins his $30,000 residence. Mr. West will build two reception hall brick houses, one to face in Sheridan avenue and the other in the rear of his own house to front in Wellesley avenue.

Brushton: Harry E. Holman sold for Isaac K. Bechtel to W. B. Powell a frame house on 25x100 feet in Baxter street, Thirty-seventh ward, for $3,000. The house rents for $27 a month.

Allegheny: W. H. Walter sold for William McKelvey to Catherine R. Mellon a frame house on 25x110 feet in Brighton avenue, Allegheny, for $2,200.

West Liberty: Henry S. Fisher sold to George L. Moreland a lot in Locust street, West Liberty, which, with an adjoining lot owned by him, will be used for a site for a $6,000 stone and shingle house.

Belmar place: T. J. Devine sold to Thomas M. Kane an irregular shaped lot facing 26 feet in Kelly street, Twenty-first ward, for $7,250.

Belmar place: The Pittsburgh Trust Company sold to E. H. Hule 25x85 feet in Monticello street, Twenty-first ward, for $1,150.

Long, two-story frame and attic, corner Oakdean and Osborn streets, Twenty-first ward, $2,500; Mrs. Mary C. Willderman, two-story brick, veneered and attic, Beatty near Black street, Nineteenth ward, $3,000; Holland & Dickie, two-story brick, veneered and attic, 7050 Kedron avenue, Twenty-first ward, $2,900; Jewish church congregation, two-story brick church, 2025 Miller street, Eleventh ward, $10,000; Jacob Minsinger, one single and one double frame dwelling, Morton avenue and Prospect street, Thirty-second ward, $6,000; John Messer, four-story brick extension, 1639 Forbes street, Sixth ward, $5,000.

Foreign Money Market.

LONDON, Aug. 11.—Money was in good demand today, the pressure being due to the continuous drain caused by demands from the provinces. Consequently discounts were firm. The stock exchange was without feature, outside of the American department, though it was generally steady. Consols were quietly steady. Americans opened firm at mostly above parity and hardened slightly later in response to a good crop report and closed steady. Grand Trunks were strong on the announcement of a full dividend in second preferred stock. Foreigners were quietly firm on peace prospects. Japanese securities rose and Russians were easier. Japanese Imperial 6s, 1904, were quoted at 103⅞. Consols for money, 90 1-16; consols for account, 90 2-16; bar silver firm, 27¾d an ounce; money, 1¾@2 per cent; rate of discount, short bills, 2 per cent; three months' bills, 2@2 1-16 per cent.

PARIS, Aug. 11.—The bourse today opened unsteady, but became firmer on a belief that the Portsmouth conference will result in peace. The close was firm. Russian Imperial 4s were quoted at 88.30 and Russian bonds of 1894 at 501. Three per cent rentes, 99 francs 70 centimes for the account; exchange on London, 25 francs 17 centimes for checks.

BERLIN, Aug. 11.—On the bourse today many domestic shares were quoted at higher prices; exchange on London, 20 marks 47¾ pfgs. for cheques.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 11.—The news from Portsmouth is received calmly in the financial world. The bourse today was quiet and firm; 4s rose one-eighth to 83¼, and were steady at that rise throughout the day, but 5s of the March internal loan fell off one-quarter to 93¾. In expectation of the new internal loan industrial securities were lively at a slight general advance.

FLOUR DROPS 5 CENTS AND MARKET IS WEAK

The only items in the local markets which experienced a change yesterday were flour and cheese. Flour dropped another 5 cents and cheese enjoyed a sharp rise. Both are weak at present quotations. Flour is being shaded and jobbers are quoting much below the quotations offered, while cheese dealers say cheese has not been so weak for several months. The price dropped off a half-cent in New York Wednesday.

In green goods there was nothing doing of a local nature yesterday. Shipments to out-of-town points were heavy, but farmers seemed to be supplying the city trade. There were no changes in quotations. Lima beans are much firmer and were selling as good as 50 cents yesterday. They may be higher this morning, but it was deemed best not to change quotations, as the market is a little uncertain.

HAY AND GRAIN.

Receipts.

Receipts of hay and grain yesterday: Pennsylvania, 7 cars oats, 18 cars hay, 4 cars straw, 1 car feed, 6 cars rye. Lake Erie, 7 cars oats, 1 car hay, 1 car straw; Baltimore & Ohio, 1 car oats, 1 car corn, 5 cars hay.

The market showed no changes yesterday. Hay receipts continue light and prices are the same. There is a better demand for oats. Straw is still weak, but is improving slightly. No advance has yet taken place in rye, nor is any likely until some of the present stock is worked off. The receipts have been mostly short straw of poor quality.

Coffee and Sugar.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—The market for coffee futures opened steady at unchanged prices to an advance of 5 points on lighter European cables, light Brazilian receipts and reports that continued cold weather is hurting Brazilian crop prospects. But there was considerable liquidation at the partial advance with September longs both selling outright and switching to later positions and the market finally eased off. The close was steady but net unchanged to 5 points lower. Nothing Better Than Pumpers Are Coming in from Southwest

Southwest operators are not bringing in any large producers. The majority of the completions are located in the old districts and the best of them are not better than pumpers. In the fifth sand development, in Freemans creek district, Lewis county, the Crude Oil Company has completed its No. 4 on the T. and L. H. Gall farm, located on 126 acres, and has a 35-barrel producer in the fifth sand. When first drilled into the sand it was thought that the showing was for a better producer. On Rock Fork, in the same district, the Philadelphia Company has drilled its test on the Michael Riley farm six feet into the Gantz sand and the well started to off on gas. The same company has drilled its test on the Marshall Woofter farm through the same formation and has a light gasser. It is now drilling to the lower sands.

On Long Drain run, Clay district, Wetzel county, the Carnegie Natural Gas Company has drilled its test on the M. Bayard farm through the Gordon and has a gasser. On the Virginia side of Dunkard creek, in the same district, the Philadelphia Company has drilled its test on the J. A. Connelly farm through the Gordon and found no oil or gas. On Buck run, Cove district Doddridge county, the Southern Oil Company is due in the sand at an important test on the Frank Smith farm. On Arnolds creek, Central district, Tyler county, the company is rigging up at a test on the Ed Smith farm. In West Union district the same company is due in the Gordon at a test on the Lewis Maxwell farm.

In the Yellow creek district, Calhoun county, the South Penn Oil Company has completed and shot its test on the Mrs. Mary Hoffman farm, and has a 60-barrel producer in the Berea grit. On Horn creek, Troy district, Gilmer county, the Crude Oil Company is drilling a test on the Peter Cole farm. In Battelle district, Monongalia county, Rose, Thomas & Co. have drilled a second test on the Ed Thomas farm through the fourth sand and found nothing at that level.

On the Ohio side, two and one-half miles northwest of Harrietsville, Noble county, N. S. Burton has completed and shot his test on the Miles Huffman farm, in what is thought to be the Keener formation, and has a show for a five or 10-barrel pumper. If, as it is believed, this well got in possession of the Keener, it will be the first well in that locality to get oil in paying quantities in that formation. In the Wolf creek district, Washington county, the Chapman Farm Oil Company has drilled its No. 6 on the Ruth A. Chapman farm through the sand and has a show for a five-barrel pumper. In the same district the Pure Oil Producing Company is drilling No. 5 on the T. H. Palmer farm and S. W. Rowland is drilling No. 12 on the Wilson heirs' farm. In the Chester Hill district, Morgan county, C. W. Van Law's No. 13 on the George Myers farm, reported as good for a five-barrel pumper, is a duster. In the same district H. E. Keesecker & Co.'s No. 5 on the J. J. Mills farm is fine in the sand. West of the old Mundersville field, in Berger county, Pa., unknown parties have drilled a test on the F. F. Ullam farm through the sand and show giving it a shot have a show for a light pumper. In the Hypsetown field, in Washington county, Coffey & Quay's No. 4 on the J. Kelly heirs' farm was in the Fire farm. Kelly Bros. & Cooper's No. 2 on the Vance farm, completed last week, is producing 2 barrels a day.

NEW STATION AT WASHINGTON

Pennsylvania Lines Will Have Handsome Structure—May Build New W. & W. Line.

WORTHINGTON DENIES RUMOR

The Pennsylvania lines west will begin the construction of a handsome new passenger station at Washington, Pa., to replace the two old structures that the people of Washington have complained about as eyesores to the city. This information was obtained from an official source yesterday. The engineers are now engaged in preparing plans for the structure, which will likely be located at Main street, where the Chartiers railway and the Waynesburg & Washington railroad meet, the latter being the narrow gauge line running from Washington to Waynesburg. The matter of standardizing this line, or, rather, of building a new standard-gauge line from Washington to Waynesburg, is also under consideration, and may become a factor in next year's improvement program for the Pennsylvania lines west.

For a long time the Washington residents have demanded a new station, some of them wanting two stations, as at present—one at Chestnut street, in the middle of the city, and the other at Main street. Some years ago the Baltimore & Ohio built a handsome station, and the Washington people have been proud of it. Nevertheless, the Pennsylvania lines have enjoyed a splendid passenger traffic from that city, and now they will build a station in keeping with the demands. It will be a brick structure, with stone trimmings, and will be built large enough to accommodate the growing business. The station will likely be located at Main street, although the intention of standardizing the narrow gauge may be a factor in locating the main station at Chestnut street.

The matter of standardizing the Waynesburg & Washington road has been under contemplation for several years. Three new routes have been surveyed. It is thought probable that one of these will be selected for construction next summer. The Waynesburg & Washington is a rather peculiar line, winding about the hillside so as not to cut through the valuable farming lands of Washington and Green counties. When the project was first broached the farmers through whose section the road was proposed were asked to join in the venture. One of the conditions they placed upon the company is said to have been that the road could be built without opposition from them in the matter of rights of way if the line would be built so as to hug the hills and not cut through the pretty farms. This was done. Should a new road be built, one of the surveys for a straight line will be used.

Wabash Rumors Denied.

The rumor was current again yesterday that Robert Blickensderfer was to leave the service of the Wabash lines east of Toledo, this to be effective September 1. It was also said that A. C. Hezlep had resigned as engineer maintenance of way, effective at once. Both of these reports were denied absolutely by Vice President B. A. Worthington last evening. The matter of Mr. Blickensderfer leaving the service has not been considered in any way, nor will it be. Mr. Worthington said that he considers Mr. Hezlep one of the best men in his line that he has ever been associated with. Mr. Blickensderfer, who attended the meeting of the board of directors of the Wheeling & Lake Erie in New York yesterday, will spend a week or 10 days at Atlantic City. His family went east on the Pennsylvania yesterday to join him at the seashore.

Mr. Worthington and his family went to Toledo last evening, where he will today test the merits of his new automobile. He expects to have it in Pittsburgh next week, so as to use the boulevard for going between his office and his home in Bellefield.

Old Station Goes on Monday.

The tearing down of the old Federal street station building of the Pennsylvania system in Allegheny will be begun Monday morning by Contractor William J. Payne, who has the contract for removing the old building and excavating for the new one. The ticket office will be removed from the old building to the new temporary structure after midnight tonight, and the seats from the old waiting room will be removed to the new waiting room. This new station will be used tomorrow, and will continue in use until the new station is built. Stationmaster S. F. Cole now occupies an office in the temporary building just over the ticket office.

Something of the importance of the Federal street station in the Pennsylvania system's passenger traffic may be gleaned from figures compiled by Station Master Cole. The figures also show the increase in this business in two years. For a period of seven days in March, 1903, there were 24,727 outbound passengers and 23,608 inbound, making a total of 48,335 passengers cared for. This was for the Eastern division of the Ft. Wayne route. For a similar period for this division in May, 1905, there were 31,056 passengers outbound and 28,876 inbound, giving a total of 59,932 passengers handled, or 11,597 more than in the seven days two years before. In addition to the May, 1905, number, there were 8,092 outbound and 7,284 inbound passengers, or a total of 15,376 passengers handled for the West Penn division. This made a total of 75,308 passengers handled in one week in May, 1905, as against a total of 48,335 handled in March, 1903, showing a gain of 26,973 passengers or 56 per cent.

Officers on Vacation.

J. J. Turner, third vice president of the Pennsylvania lines west, left last evening to join his family at their summer cottage at Mackinaw Island, where he will remain about a month. Secretary S. B. Liggett of the same company went to Atlantic City Thursday and in a few days will go to Gloucester, Mass., for a month's sojourn with his family at their cottage. General Manager G. L. Peck returned yesterday from a brief vacation, and Col. S. H. Church, assistant secretary, is expected home from a sojourn at Muskoka Lake this morning.

General Freight Agent W. A. Terry and General Passenger Agent L. A. Robison of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie left yesterday with a "young arsenal" and a small "fishing tackle store," as one of their friends put it, to spend a few weeks fishing and hunting. Their exact destination could not be learned. A. H. Rayner, assistant chief engineer of the Lake Erie, is sojourning with his family at his former home at Huntsville, Can.

Affiliation With B. R. & P.

It is unofficially stated that the new line of the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern eastward from Franklin, for which the contract was awarded last week, will extend from Franklin to Clarion, to Brookville, to Dubois, and that from Dubois to Clearfield, an affiliation will be effected with the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh for the use of that company's line. Such an affiliation would tend to disabuse the minds of many that the Pennsylvania system will secure control of the Rochester line. If such an affiliation is effected the line from Dubois to Clearfield will probably be double-tracked so as to give ample facilities for the heavy coal traffic from the Clearfield and Beech Creek districts to the lake.

In the construction of the new line for the Lake Shore the section included in Clearfield, Jefferson, Clarion, Elk and Forest counties will be given a new short line to Chicago. In fact the Pittsburgh district lines will be direct sufferers, for most of that traffic has come through Pittsburgh.

Railroad Notes.

General Freight Agent George W. Davis of the Cleveland, Akron & Columbus, and Division Freight Agents Guy S. McCabe and S. C. Matthews of the Pennsylvania lines at Richmond, Ind., and Cincinnati, respectively, were in Pittsburgh conferring with head traffic officials.

Superintendent H. W. McMaster of the Wabash lines east of Toledo, of Canton, and Assistant General Freight Agent E. E. Coolidge of the Wheeling & Lake Erie, of Cleveland, were in the city.

William J. Colbert, Pennsylvania railroad agent at Cresson, formerly assistant station master at the Union station, was visiting in Pittsburgh.

F. M. Nelson, chief clerk in the Great Northern traffic offices here, has accepted a position as chief clerk in the Cotton Belt offices under Commercial Freight Agent J. C. Toynbee.

J. C. Smith, chief clerk in the Chicago Great Western traffic offices, will take a vacation trip over the company's lines for the next 10 days.

John B. Wilson, private secretary to Fourth Vice President E. B. Taylor of the Pennsylvania lines west, has returned to duty, having recovered from being hit on the head by a ball in the Richmond-Pittsburgh game a month ago.

The new through service from Wheeling to New York on the Pennsylvania system will become effective next Monday.

George J. Gould expects to sail for America August 22.

Brakemen W. M. Gilbert, J. E. Thorn, W. S. Plummer, C. A. Smith and O. Fyler have been promoted to the extra passenger conductor pool of the Pennsylvania.

Conductors W. G. Rhodes and E. R. Goodwin of the Pennsylvania have returned from a vacation at Atlantic City.

Great Baseball Game Free.

The great baseball game between New York and Pittsburgh which ended in a dispute last Saturday was photographed for the Pittsburgh Index. The wonderful picture, over 40 inches long, will be given free with every copy of this week's Index. Out this morning. On sale at all news stands.

Pythians Are Erecting Handsome Home in Butler County

The corner stone of the new Knights of Pythias Home, located at Harmony, Butler county, will be laid on Monday. The building will stand on a farm of 120 acres, and will cost from $25,000 to $30,000. The Pythian Home association, which is responsible for the erection of the home, is composed of 21 lodges, most of them in Western Pennsylvania. Any lodge can become a member of the association by paying a stipulated amount per member and yearly dues for the maintenance of the Home. Most of the lodges in the western parts of the state will participate in Monday's exercises. Four Pythians are now being cared for in temporary quarters. Special trains will be run from Pittsburgh, Allegheny, Butler, DuBois, Greenville and way points, and 10,000 people are expected to be present. Dancing, sports and other forms of amusement will help to make the day a pleasant one for those who attend.

EX-PRISONERS OF WAR WANT NEW PENSION BILL

Make Arrangements to Attend the Annual Convention of the National Association.

The Allegheny county association of the Union Ex-Prisoners of War met last night at Alderman J. D. Walker's office, 6010 Penn avenue, and elected officers for the ensuing year. Arrangements were also completed for the annual convention of the National association in Denver, Col., September 4, and delegates and alternates were elected. It was decided to leave for the convention over the Fort Wayne road September 1 at 8 a. m., which will land the delegation at the convention city on September 3.

A resolution was passed instructing Congressman Dalzell to reintroduce the Penrose Union Ex-Prisoners of War bill at the next session of congress. At the last session the bill was buried in committee. According to the bill each Union prisoner of war is allowed $2 for each day spent in a rebel prison and $12 a month to all ex-prisoners or their widows.

The election of officers resulted as follows: Commander, J. W. Eberhart; vice commander, I. M. Bliss; adjutant, J. H. Jones; quartermaster, F. I. Blair.

Delegates to the Denver convention are: James Fisher, Graham Coulter, D. H. Haggerty, John A. Fairman, I. N. Bliss, John Russell, Daniel McSweeney and Samuel Creelman. Alternates: John Horn, John Walters, H. M. Johnston, Joseph Hamlin, F. I. Blair, G. W. Bruner, James Frederick, G. W. Darly and J. W. Moore.

It was decided to hold another meeting at the call of the chair to make arrangements for dedication of the monument erected by the state to the victims of the Andersonville prison, at Andersonville, Ga., which will take place in November.

REAR ADMIRAL BENHAM ENDS GLORIOUS CAREER

Fifty-Eight Years of His Life Spent in His Country's Service—Was Hero of Rio Janeiro Blockade.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Rear Admiral E. K. Benham, retired, died today at Lake Mohopac, N. Y., after a term of 58 years in the navy. He was 73 years old. Admiral Benham in recent years will probably be best remembered as a member of the court of inquiry which sat in the Admiral Schley case in this city three years ago, but his record as a naval officer was brilliant without that duty. He was a veteran of the Civil war, and during the Spanish war.

Admiral Benham's most pronounced service was probably his breaking up of the paper blockade of Rio Janeiro in 1893. The revolutionists had obtained control of the very limited navy of the Argentine Republic, and had declared a blockade. Under international law, a blockade can be recognized only when it is effective. Admiral Benham, who then commanded the South Atlantic squadron, was convinced the blockade was not or should not be effective. Accordingly, as soon as the first American merchantman hove in sight he volunteered to convey it into the harbor and did so, defying the revolutionists. His example was followed by ships of other nations and the paper blockade quickly came to an end.

EXPOSITION SECURES A POPULAR ATTRACTION

"Fighting the Flames" Is a Realistic Production Which Holds Its Audience Spellbound.

Almost the entire northern section of Mechanical hall at the Exposition is being cleared of its booths and exhibits of former years to make room for a spectacular fire show, which has just been secured by the Expo management. The attraction will occupy more than one-third of Machinery hall, even the boiler room being utilized in giving the exhibition.

The first scene which strikes the eye in the "Fighting the Flames" is one typical of any city on a busy day. Wagons and cabs trot through the streets, autos dash by and pedestrians can be seen thronging the sidewalks. Suddenly the cry of fire comes from a hotel and all the thrilling scenes attending a city fire are pictured in a most realistic manner.

In the production of "Fighting the Flames" three complete fire companies are required, including an extension ladder and chief's wagon; over 250 people are needed to give the street scene the proper life while several cabs, autos and a number of horses are employed. The exhibition will cost in the neighborhood of $20,000 to install.

TO TREBLE ITS CAPITAL.

Second National Bank Stockholders to Vote Upon Proposition to Issue 1,000 Shares of Stock.

A plan has been perfected by the directors of the Second National bank whereby a certain portion of the bank's surplus will be converted into the capital stock, making the latter $1,500,000, and leaving the surplus, with the undivided profits, about the same. The present capital stock of the Second National is $500,000 and the arrangement now advocated does not in any sense necessitate an increase in the banks' resources, the plan simply embracing the exchange of one share of the old stock for three of the new.

This plan to give the bank treble its old capitalization originates with President Willock, who argues that it will give to the bank additional latitude in the making of individual and commercial loans without conflicting in any way with the National banking laws, which restrict national bank loans to 10 per cent of their capitalization. The stockholders will meet on September 12 to pass upon the plan.

DOUKHOBORS NEW CRUSADE.

Winnipeg Police Again Having Trouble With Fanatical Religious Sect.

WINNIPEG, MAN., Aug. 11.—Thirty doukhobors, a religious sect, marched to within half a mile of Yorkton, today, stripped themselves naked, and burned their clothes. The police arrested all the men, women and children in the party, and wrapped them in blankets.

The doukhobors had intended to march through the streets of Yorkton naked. They refused all nourishment but raw potatoes. They say they are looking for Christ. Another party is reported to be heading for Yorkton from the northeast.

ATTRACTIVE PLACES PICKED FOR WORSHIP

BANKRUPTCY EXHIBIT SHOWS BIGELOW'S SYSTEM

His First Speculaton from the Milwaukee Bank Made in May, 1904, and Is $15,000.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

MILWAUKEE, WIS., Aug. 11.—The history of former Banker Frank G. Bigelow's downfall showing the amounts he took from the First National bank from May 25, 1904, until April 25, last, has come to light. According to the story, he began by abstracting $15,000 and gradually increased the amounts until the total approximated over a million and a half. The truth was revealed in an exhibit submitted to the bankruptcy court in proof of the bank's claim against Bigelow. The first step in Bigelow's wrong doing was taken on May 25, 1904, when he charged the Chemical National bank of New York with $15,000, for which it was not indebted to the First National bank of Milwaukee. On July 1, 1904, he had increased his shortage to $55,000 and by September 1 his thefts had reached $122,000.

In the month that followed he charged the First National bank of Chicago with $50,000 and twice with $40,000 in lumps, these and other sums swelling his defalcations to $455,400 by October 1. During October he increased his shortage to $887,500.

January 1 of this year the bank examiner was due. Notwithstanding this fact, Bigelow, in the 30 days preceding, had taken over $350,000 additional, and the figures stood $1,082,185 against him. He took $38,000 in the month following. March 1 he had taken in all $1,207,800, an increase of $106,000 since the first of the preceding month. April 1 the shortage was $1,269,800, and April 25, $1,553,223. Then came discovery and conviction, followed by a penitentiary sentence.

ERYSIPELAS CREEPS IN.

Comes to Pittsburgh from Outlying District—Twenty Cases of Typhoid.

A contagious disease that is rather unusual in this city is slowly creeping into it from outlying districts and is being brought in by foreigners. During the present month four cases of erysipelas have been reported to the bureau of health, the last case being that of Alex Shay, a slav, of Cheswick, Pa. Shay went into the bureau of health yesterday suffering with the disease. His head, face and hands were badly swollen and of a deep purple hue. He was at once sent to the Municipal hospital. During the month of August, 1904, not a single case of erysipelas was reported.

Two cases of scarlet fever, one of diphtheria, two of erysipelas and 20 cases of typhoid fever were reported yesterday.

Head Crushed at Carbarn.

Frank Mitterader of No. 137 Winslow street, a carpenter in the employ of the Pittsburgh Railways Company at the Homewood barn, was killed while at work at the car barns at 12:00 o'clock this morning. He had been setting a pane of glass in a car window and stuck his head out of the window as the car moved out of the barn. His head was crushed between the car and the frame of the door and he died soon after.

BEN AVON FIELD CLUB ARRANGES FOR BIG DAY

Committees Are Named to Look After Guests Expected on Their Grounds September 4.

The Ben Avon Field club is arranging for a field day on its grounds near Emsworth station September 4, that will prove an event even on Labor day. Some of the well-known men in business and professional circles of Pittsburgh are on the committees and all are working together to make up such a program that the huge crowd expected will be sure to get many times its money's worth.

Games and athletic contests, with a baseball game as the central feature, will be plentiful enough to keep everyone occupied, and the side line of attractions is promised to be the best that has been gathered on a similar occasion in Western Pennsylvania. The Ben Avon baseball nine is one of the best amateur teams hereabouts.

There are committees to look after every detail of the great day and seven masters of ceremonies selected for their ability to keep things going to see that there is never a lull in interest in any part of the grounds. The masters of ceremonies are John S. Robb, Sr., L. K. Porter, W. P. Kulpers, J. M. Hilands, J. M. J. Slattery, J. H. Bell and Robert Hamilton.

THE THREE RIVERS

The stage of water at Davis island dam at 2 o'clock last night was 4.2 feet and the river was stationary.

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 11.—(Special.)—At 6 p. m. today the Ohio river at Cincinnati was 10 feet and falling. Today's departures of packets from Cincinnati were: Tacoma, Pomeroy; Courier, Marysville; Indiana, Louisville, and Rees Lee, Memphis and lower rivers. The rise which is coming out of the Kanawha was not as great as expected by rivermen. It passed into the Ohio river today and caused a rise of about a foot. While this is slight it will serve to hold the present water for some days. On top of these rises will come more from the same territory, as the weather reports of the government say that good rains have fallen at the headwaters of the New river in the Allegheny mountains, and more rain is promised within the next 12 hours. Clear and warm.

OIL CITY—River 1 foot and falling. Cloudy and cooler.

GREENSBORO—River 7 feet 5 inches and stationary. Warm and threatening. Columbia down Saturday and Woodward up.

MORGANTOWN, W. VA.—River 6 feet 9 inches and falling. Cloudy.

WHEELING—River 4 feet 7 inches and stationary. Cloudy and warm, with showers. Departed—Bessie Smith, Parkersburg, 2 p. m.; Virginia, Pittsburgh, 3 p. m.

MARIETTA, O.—River 4.5 feet and rising. Warm, with showers. Bessie Smith due from Pittsburgh.

STEUBENVILLE, O.—River 4 feet and falling. Cloudy and warm. Down—Bessie Smith. Up—Virginia.

MIDDLEPORT, O.—River 5 feet and about stationary. Up—Josh Cook, 8 a. m.; Charles Brown, 1 p. m.; Exporter, 5 p. m. Down—Queen City, 7:30 a. m. Cloudy and warm.

LOUISVILLE—River falling. In canal, 4.5 feet; on falls, 2.3 feet; below locks, 9.1 feet. Partly cloudy and warm.

PARKERSBURG—River 5 feet 8 inches and stationary. Clear and warm. Hard rain last night. The Bessie Smith left at 8 p. m. for Pittsburgh.

POINT PLEASANT—River 5 feet 1 inch and falling. Cloudy. Up—Josh Cook, Charles Brown, Exporter, J. S. Hatfield. Down—Queen City and Tacoma.

WARREN—River 1 foot. Rainy.

GALLIPOLIS—River 7 feet 6 inches and stationary. Cloudy and warm.

WHARF WAS DESERTED.

One Water Bound Packet the Only One Along Water Street.

The Ben Hur, the only packet at the Pittsburgh wharf yesterday morning, looked very lonesome. She is water bound, not being able to get away from this city until a rise comes. The rains of Thursday night and yesterday are expected to enable her to get out by Sunday or Monday at the latest. The Greenland and Lorena, both due yesterday morning had not arrived at a late hour last evening. They were held back by low water and fog, and it was not thought they would be able to get above Rochester. It was reported yesterday afternoon that the Lorena had got to Sewickley and was coming up, but she had not arrived late in the evening, and it was believed she would not attempt the trip. Unless there is a good rise in the river today or tomorrow the packet season for the year may be almost counted over.

The Virginia is due today from Cincinnati. She will probably stop at Rochester.

The Bessie Smith got in late Thursday evening from Parkersburg and left at midnight.

The Sam Brown and Ironsides are both tied up with tows of empties at Fish Creek and will await a rise there.

BUTCHERS PAY FINES.

Men Charged With Using Preservatives in Meats Contribute $100 Each to State.

Three more of the meat dealers, who were prosecuted by the state for the use of preservatives, yesterday, went before Alderman Groetzinger and paid fines of $100 each. There are still nine butchers under bail for a hearing next Tuesday.

Those who paid fines are George Eckert, George W. Evans, Allegheny market, and George Etzel of the Pittsburgh market. They were charged with putting preservatives in hamburger steak.

Toll Roads Made Free.

Orders were made in the court yesterday confirming the purchase by the county of the Perrysville and Wexford toll roads. The turnpikes will now be thrown open to the public.
